MAZAWATTEE TEA.

What "HEALTH" says:

"Recently I have been tempted to give a trial to the Mazawattee Ceylon Teas sold by the Company of that name of Eastcheap-buildings, Eastcheap, London, E.C. These teas, certified as regards their purity and the small amount of tannin they contain, as well as regards the high proportion and quality of their theine (the active principle of all teas) by Dr. W. Emmerson, public analyst for the county of Leicester, &c., really fulfil all the conditions above noted as distinguishing the genuine article. Their aroma is excellent and pleasant, they infuse readily, and there is no bitterness or astringency in their taste. That these teas are most suitable for invalids there can be no question, and the brands sold by the Mazawattee Company should, if merit alone had its due, take a first rank among the products of the East. I know of no more pleasant or really dietetic teas than those of the Mazawattee brand, and those of my readers who may be in search of means for producing 'the cup that cheers but not inebriates,' in typical perfection, should certainly give these teas a fair and unprejudiced trial."

HOW few in the present day know what it is to enjoy a cup of really fine toa. As paste is to diamond, so is the miserable, flavourless rubbish which finds its way into the majority of British teapots, compared with the grand old "brews," the pride of our grandmothers 30 years ago. And why is this? Why is one so often compelled, in the drawing-rooms of otherwise decently conducted households, to swallow unpalatable stuff that would have disgraced our grandmothers' kitchens? The reason is not far to seek. We have of late years been so deluged with puffing advertisoments, vying with each other to lower the public taste, that a large portion of the public believe that they can obtain the finest toa at a price for which absolutely only the most inferior quality can be purchased.

China has long since ceased to send us her finest teas, and we now, to a great extent, depend on India and Ceylon for our quality. The development of the cultivation of tea in Ceylon, during the last five or six years, has been enormous, and we now obtain from that island a cortain proportion of tea that rivals the fine old China teas.

It has rested with the Mazawattee Ceylon Tea Co. to take advantage of this new production of fine toa from Ceylon, and to supply a want long felt. By skilful selection and blending of the finest Ceylon growths, they have given fresh life to the taste for fine tea, which had so nearly become extinct in this country.

The rapid growth in the demand for these Mazawattee Bleads is wholly without parallel in the history of the tea trade. Established rather more than four years, the out-turn of these teas is about 10 million packets yearly. They have over 4,000 Agents throughout the United Kingdom, and there is now no excuse for people to drink rubbish themselves, or to give their friends such a wretched apology for tea, as should bring a blush to the face of every right-minded matron.

The two higher qualities, $3 /-$ and $2 / 6$, are composed $\cdot$ entirely of Ceylon tea, the lower qualities, $2 / 2$ and $2 /-$, are blended with Indian and other growths, which supply the briskness and pungency that are lacking in the lower qualities of Ceylon teas.

Consequent on the reduction of the tea duty the above prices are reduced $2 d$. per lb., and are now $1 / 10,2 / \cdot, 2 / 4,2 / 10$. Name of nearest Agent forwarded on application.

MEDICAL & ANALYTICAL REPORT.

I certify that I have analysed samples of Ceylon Tea submitted to me by the Mazawattee Ceylon Tea Co., Easicheap Buildings, London.

A detailed analysis is appended.
I find that the theine upon which the refreshing properties of tea depends, is quite equal to that in the finest teas imported, whilst the tanuin, which, from its astringency makes ordinary tea disagree with many constitutions, is in very much smaller quantities in the Mazaratteo Ceylon Tea.

Many Dyspeptics, who are obliged to avoid ordinary tea, find they can drink this with great relish, aud feel no nervousness or distress after its use.
