Education Guide Sri Lanka

Education Guide Sri Lanka is for everyone interested in education in Sri Lanka, the students, the parents, the professionals, the educational administrators, student counselors, adults who wish to further their education or training, job seekers and the interested public who use or support educational activities.

For parents and prospective students the guide is a means of identifying what particular schools or education paths do offer. For schools and institutions it offers a means of letting parents and students know what they are seeking to achieve, so that they could chart their career path. It offers an overview of the education system in the country.

We have to understand the fact that there are differences in what works for different children, even those from the same family. Young people differ in confidence and interests, in academic, sporting and artistic abilities, and simply in what they want and what kind of persons they want to be. This guide provides them almost all the options of traditional education paths, alternative paths, tertiary and vocational education paths and career guidance sources available within the country and some information about overseas institutions as well.

What we must bear in mind is that all people are not endowed the same way. Some are exceptionally bright while others not so. There are yet others who may not even measure up to the levels expected of them in the formal educational system. This however does not mean that they should be deprived of an education and life skills so necessary for survival in today's world. This is especially so in the context of our extremely demanding educational system, where only about 45 out of 100 students who sit the A levels are able to qualify for university admission. Out of this 45, only 14 percent ultimately gain admission to the universities. Thus it is imperative that we cater to the needs of those who have not only been unable to gain university admission, but also those who may have not even sat their O levels or A levels. It is here that the importance of educational institutes such as the Open University which enables students even with O level qualifications to study for a degree and vocational training institutes which impart skills even to those who have not passed their O levels is felt.

The information in this guide comes from three sources. Firstly, from the public authorities, Ministry of Education, Ministry of Skills Development - Vocational and Technical Education, National Institute of Education, University Grants Commission, Vocational Training Authority and Skills Development Project. Secondly, Private Institutions from their brochures and profiles and their reports provided by themselves. Thirdly, from other public sources, web sites, publications and newspapers.

We hope Education Guide Sri Lanka will assist you understand our education system and what it offers for you.

Education System of Sri Lanka

History

Ancient Period

Since the arrival of Vijaya and his followers about the year 543 BC, the Brahmins enjoyed a prominent status in Sri Lanka. The descendants of the royal family received their education under the Brahmins, in their homes ( 'Gurukula' or 'Gurugedara' ).

It is believed that 236 years after the passing away of the Buddha, a firm foundation was laid for Buddhist Civilization and for a Buddhist Education System with the introduction of Buddhism to Sri Lanka by Arhanth Mahinda, during the reign of King Devanampiya Tissa. After the introduction of Buddhism the establishment of monastic institutions was mainly responsible for spreading of education. Pirivenas or monastic colleges primarily intended for the education of clergy students, were established and patronised by the kings of old.

The first such institution which helped the continuation of the study of languages and Buddhism for many centuries was set up at the Mahavihara in Anuradhapura. This paved the way for the discontinuation of the "Gurugedara" or "Gurukula" system (home of the teacher) and for the establishment of a system of Buddhist Educational Institutions. The Monks soon became proficient in the teachings of the Buddha and the village monastery gradually became the centre of learning for the area. All this religious knowledge was handed down orally for generations. Bhikkus who had a particular section of the Dhamma in Pali committed to memory communicate the same to the pupils until the latter in their turn, could recite that section by heart. It was not for the reason that the art of writing was unknown at that time. Inscriptions have been engraved on rocks in caves occupied by monks and writing material like the bark of trees, leaves of the palm tree, strips of bamboo were no doubt in use among certain groups of people.

King Vattagamini (103 BC) extended his patronage to another monastic college, the Abhayagirivihara at Anuradhapura, which broke away from the earlier establishment and in the course of time became its rival. The Teachers of Abhayagirivihara often differed from those of the Mahavihara in the interpretation of the Dhamma. The members of Mahavihara and their rivals engaged themselves in propagating their faith in neighbouring countries and it is possible that these Bhikkus acquired a knowledge of these foreign languages in which they were expected to preach.

During the reign of King Mahasen, Jethavanarama monastery was founded, where the curriculum was not confined only to religion, but also other languages, history of many countries, Vedic and Post - Vedic literature, medicine, astronomy, poetry, architecture etc.

As more and more monasteries or temples opened up in villages, more villagers started to come to listen to the Bhikkus preaching the Dhamma, and these temples became the institutions for primary education. The Pirivena where the Bhikkus received their education in the Dhamma became the institution for secondary education; and the Mahavihara with learned staff, facilities for research and libraries turned out to be the centre for tertiary education.

During the Polonnaruwa period ( 1073 - 1215 AD) more pirivenas were started and the curriculum included Sinhala and other languages, art, etc. Non formal education provided an education of a very high standard with regard to subjects like Weaving, Metal work, Gold and Silver work, Clay Pottery, Tailoring, Architecture, Town Planning, Construction of Irrigation Systems, Art and Painting, Literature etc. This trend continued during the Dambadeniya period too.

Architecture of Ruwanweli Seya, Jethawana and Abhayagiri Dagobas, Engineering and Irrigation systems of Reservoirs in Anuradhapura and Polonnaruwa is living evidence of the high standard of education imparted to students of these various disciplines in the older days. Unfortunately this knowledge has not been transmitted in any form of writing and is lost to the future generations.

During the Dambadeniya Period (1232 - 1271AD ) many more Pirivenas such as Maha Mahinda Pirivena, Buwanekaba Pirivena, Perakumba Pirivena, Prathiraja Pirivena and Mayurapada Pirivena were started and many Buddhist literature books - Pujawaliya, Saddharmaratnawaliya, Attanagaluwansaya were written. The number of Buddhist education institutions increased gradually and by 1500 AD there were several Pirivenas which became famous due to the Bhikkus who contributed immensely for the development of the Sinhala Language and Literature.

Some of these institutions were: Thotagamuwe Sri Vijayaba Pirivena - (Thotagamuwe Sri Rahula Thero), Veedagama Ghanananda Pirivena - (Veedagama Maithree Thero), Keragala Padmawathie Pirivena - (Keragala Vanaratana Thero) and Pepiliyane Sunethradevi Pirivena - (Named after the Mother of the king who built it.)

Portuguese Period - (1505 - 1658 AD)

In 1505, the Portuguese invaded Sri Lanka and ruled the maritime provinces of Sri Lanka for 153 years. They introduced an education system in these areas and started many schools in Kotte and Jaffna.

The main objective of their education was to convert Sri Lankans to the Catholic faith. The teachers were Catholic priests and they taught Catholic religion, Languages and Arithmetics.

The Dutch Period: ( 1658 - 1796 AD)

In 1658, The Dutch conquered the areas which were under the Portuguese and continued to rule for 138 years until the British ousted them in 1796. They too continued the education and converted people to Christianity. They trained the converted people to work for them.

Under Portuguese education system males were given both primary and secondary education and females were given only primary education. During this period Buddhist monks were encouraged to spread Buddhism by Velivita Saranankara thero.

The British Period: (1796 - 1948 )

When the British occupied Sri Lanka in 1796 and conquered the Kandyan Kingdom 1815, they too continued to convert locals to Christianity and impart education. They too distributed books on Christianity with a view to converting people. The 1805 - 1824 Period was known as the Missionary Period as many Christian Missionary institutions were active in setting up schools and giving education throughout the country. In addition to export of spices the British embarked on investment in planting coffee, a new venture in agriculture. The road network was constructed to assist transport of goods to plantations and to the harbours in Colombo and Galle.

In order to establish a proper supervision and administration on education, the Colebrook Commission made recommendations for the reorganization of the Education System in the country in 1831. Under these recommendations, a commission to manage schools were established and an academy for training of teachers was established.

In 1841, recommendations of the governor made a remarkable change in the education system of the country. They were,

Reorganizing all government schools and linking the Missionary schools to the government schools,

Admit children to all schools regardless of the religion,

Take steps to develop vernacular schools,

Supply books and arrange for translation of books in to National Languages,

Start an Institution for Training teachers and appoint Inspectors of Schools.

A system of primary schools, Bilingual Schools and Vernacular schools was started. Central Schools and Girls Schools were started in Colombo, Galle and Kandy.

In 1865, the Morgan Committee made recommendations after a request by Mr. M. Kumaraswami, a member of the then Legislative council. After the 1841 implementations a Priest from Church of England was appointed as the Chairman of the Commission, Teaching Christianity in schools began once again. This was the reason that another committee was established and its recommendations were; establishment a Department of Public Instruction under a Director of Education (established in 1869, Supervision and opening or closing of schools came under this Department and the Missionary schools came under the supervision of the Department., appointing an Inspector of Schools for every District, abolition of the Central School Commission, government to take the responsibility of Education, primary education to be in the National Languages and Secondary Education to be in English medium, Colombo Academy to be reorganized and offer Scholarships to study in Oxford university in England, A Technical Schools and an Institution to train Technical Teachers to be started, Schools for girls to be opened, Institutions for training teachers for vernacular schools and the other for training teachers for Bilingual schools to be opened.

During the British rule, the following Institutions were established by the government:

Medical College - Medical College of Ceylon was established in 1870 and was recognized by the British Medical Association in 1889.

Law College - Started in 1895

School of Agriculture - A School of Agriculture was opened in Colombo in 1884 and in 1909 in Peradeniya.

Technical College - In 1893 Government Technical College was started in Colombo. From 1881 Technical Schools, mainly Carpentry Schools were opened in villages and by 1930 there were 146 such Technical Schools through out the Island.

University College - The University College was established in Colombo in 1921 to prepare students for the external examinations of the University of London. There was no provision for Higher Education by this time.

Buddhist, Hindu and Muslim Schools

Buddhist and Hindu Children were compelled to attend the Christian schools as there were many Christian schools, and they were compelled to follow classes in Christianity. As a result Buddhist organizations with the help of leading Buddhist Priests started Buddhist schools in lands and buildings donated by parents, in various parts in the country and registered as Assisted Buddhist Schools. Similarly Hindus and Muslims too started Hindu Schools and Muslim Schools in areas where they lived in the country.

In 1880 Col. Henry Steel Olcott came to Sri Lanka and he organized the Buddhist Theosophical Society and started a number of Buddhist Schools such as Ananda College, Colombo; Dharmaraja College, Kandy and Mahinda College, Galle. By 1900 there were 142 such Buddhist schools with 18,700 children. Buddhist schools for girls were also started. Similarly various Hindu Organizations started Assisted Hindu Schools and by 1900 there were 45 schools with over 5000 students while Muslims started Muslim Schools in Kandy, Zahira College in Gampola and Colombo in 1892.

Education during the State Council 1931 - 1947. Dr. C.W.W.Kannangara

Dr. C.W.W.Kannangara was the first Chairman of the Executive Committee for Education and the country's first Minister of Education. Dr. Kannangara introduced free education for all children from kindergarten to the University, adopted the vernaculars as the media of instruction, established Central Schools and Junior Schools were established for the first time for poor children in rural areas. The opportunities for education at all levels were opened regardless of caste, creed or social status. 53 Central schools were established in 1941, with the best available facilities and teachers providing an education on par with the best fee-levying schools.

After Independence in 1948

The highest priority was given to education after independence in 1948. Within the last five decades the literacy rate of the population has gone up to over 90% and is the highest in South East Asia. Vidyodaya University and Vidyalkankara University were established in 1958. 2750 Assisted schools were taken over by the government in 1960, and 55 schools remained as Fee Levying Private schools.

Reforms in the Education System in 1972.

The school system was categorized into three types.

Primary Education - Grades 1 - 5

Junior Secondary Education - Grades 6 - 9

Senior Secondary Education - Grades 10 - 11

The age of admission to schools was raised to 6 years. The curriculum of the Senior Secondary stage consisted of the 10 subjects including two pre-vocational subjects.

General education ended at the end of grade 9 and the students appeared for the National Certificate of General Education Examination (NCGE). Students who got through the exam were admitted to the Senior Secondary stage, where the curriculum consisted of separate streams - physical science, biological science, social science & commerce. However, this stage was not implemented after the change of government in 1977.

The White Paper on Education of 1981, consisted of reforms on education recommended by the three committees of General Education, Technical Education and National Apprentice Training appointed in 1979 and the structure of the school system changed once again as follows.

Primary School - 1-5 years

Junior Secondary School- 6, 7, 8 years

Senior Secondary School - 9,10, 11 years

Pre-University Stage - 12 & 13 years

Reforms included in the White Paper were:

Life Skills, A new subject in place of the two pre-vocational subjects was introduced in the reforms, A dual system of evaluation at the Senior Secondary stage.(Continuous Assessment during the Course, consisting of oral, written and practical assessment techniques, secondly tests conducted at the end of the Course)

A School Cluster system consisting of a large school (Cluster Centre) and 10-15 small schools situated close to the Cluster Centre. The Cluster Centre Principal was made responsible for the administration and supervision of educational activities of the other schools in the Cluster. The main idea of introducing the Cluster System were to minimize the discrepancies in the facilities available in the larger schools and in the smaller schools around them, to make use of the experience and efficiency of the Principals of the large schools in the management of the small schools and to obtain the help of parents of all the schools for the development of small schools in the Cluster.

Recent Developments in Pre School Sector

The Ministry of Education and Higher Education and the Children's Secretariat have identified the need to regulate and maintain the standard of pre-schools as places where necessary stimulation for social and cognitive development in early childhood could be provided. Guidelines for pre-schools have been prepared. And are needed to encourage the pre-schools to improve their facilities and the quality of pre-school.

The government responsibility for pre-schools began to receive attention with the formation of the Children's Secretariat in the early 1990's. A report on Early Childhood Care and Education was presented to Parliament in 1986 as a Sessional Paper. Concurrently, with these developments, a new trend in ECCD was seen - i.e. emphasis on the child's total well being and development both emotionally and intellectually. The Children's Secretariat of the Ministry of Women's Affairs is mandated to promote ECCD. Pre-school education and ECCD have been included as a subject under the Education Reforms of 1997. Under these reforms Provincial Councils and Local Government Authorities will be encouraged to maintain ECCD centres. The government will also provide facilities for the training of pre-school teachers and the development of curricula and model teaching - learning materials for these centres (NEC 1997). In 1997 when the National Plan of Action for Children was formulated, ECCD was included as an important component.

The institutions involved are the Children's Secretariat of the Ministry of Women's Affairs, The Open University of Sri Lanka (OUSL) and certain Local Authorities and NGOs such as Sarvodaya. The government despite its relatively recent involvement is playing a significant role. The Children's Secretariat has developed a set of guidelines for pre-schools and trained NGO personnel in the districts to adopt these guidelines. In addition it has developed Communication and Education materials on home - based ECCD activities. The OUSL offers a diploma course in pre-school education and this diploma is considered as a recognised qualification for pre - school teaching. According to the present devolved administrative structure, ECCD is a devolved subject. As such, steps have been taken at provincial level to strengthen Provincial Councils for ECCD activities and accordingly a cell for ECCD activities has been established within the Provincial Education Ministries.

The Resource Group (local experts in ECCD) of the National Committee on ECCD are formulating the minimum requirements for the registration of pre-schools island-wide. A national basic curriculum for pre-schools is being formulated. The Pre-schools are to be re-named as Early Childhood Care and Development Centres. The manual for trainers of pre-school teachers for guidance on use of the national basic curriculum is in progress. The Children's Secretariat has initiated a programme to train national trainers, teachers and care givers on ECCD. The Children's Secretariat with the involvement of relevant ministries and other organisations has conducted a series of parent awareness programmes through TV and radio. Arrangements are already being made to establish a Department of Child Development with a Child Study Centre at the Open University of Sri Lanka.

Reform in Primary Education

(i) Curriculum and assessment procedure; (ii) Teacher development; (iii) Designing of appropriate buildings, school layout and equipment for primary grades; (iv) Strengthening of management of primary education at provincial and school levels; (v) Providing syllabi, textbooks, workbooks, resource materials and supplementary reading materials; and (vi) Providing buildings, furniture, equipment and library facilities in schools.

The NEC (1997) has recommended the following proposals to improve primary education: (i) enactment of regulations on compulsory education for 5-14 years old children; (ii) improving pre-school education and programmes for Early Childhood Development; (iii) upgrading disadvantaged schools located in rural areas, urban slums, plantation areas and coastal areas; (iv) promoting the teaching of Tamil to Sinhala students and Sinhala to Tamil students; (v) improving teacher-pupil relations and counseling services; (vi) Reducing school size to a maximum of 2000 pupils; (vii) initiating programmes to improve rapport with parents; (viii) introducing school-based management; (ix) introducing performance appraisal of teachers; (x) increasing allocation of funds for education (from 2.9 per cent of GDP to 4.5 per cent); (xi) provision of a financial grant to schools; and (xii) enactment of a New Education Act.

Distinctive Features in Curricular Reforms

Grades 1-5 constitute the primary cycle of education. Under the new framework, the primary cycle will constitute three key stages and the teaching methodology in these three stages will vary as under:

Key Stage 1 consists of Grades 1 and 2 and the focus in these grades will be on physical and mental development through activity-based methods.

Key Stage 2 consists of Grades 3 and 4 and will focus on an integrated thematic approach and activities.

Key Stage 3 comprises Grade 5 where the focus will be on deskwork-based academic work leading to demarcated subject specifications.

Competency-based curriculum will be followed in the country and the subject areas in the curriculum are limited to four, namely: language/languages; mathematics; religion; and environment-related activities.

The integrated nature is more prominent in the present curriculum than that in the past due to the introduction of environment-related activities which encompass several disciplines needed for the total development of the child. Language teaching also follows specified stages.

Activity-based oral English is introduced in Key Stage 1, followed by formal teaching of English from Key Stage 2 and a second national language (Sinhala/Tamil) from Key Stage 3. Similarly, continuous classroom-based assessment will take place with increased emphasis on using informal methods and with a movement towards criterion-referenced assessment techniques. Another measure introduced is to assign the same teacher for the entire Key Stage 1 and Key Stage 2, so that a single teacher will be able to stay with a group of children for two years continuously.

The PTF is supported by thirteen technical committees to prepare action plans for implementing reforms.

The reform proposals at all levels of education are broadly grouped under five main areas. ## National Education System

Public Schools

The population of Sri Lanka is nearly 18 million. There are more or less 4.2 million children enrolled in over 9,790 public schools around the country. All public schools follow the National Curriculum. Schools are classified into five types namely;

- 1A, 1B      Schools with GCE (Advance Level) classes.
- Type 1C      Schools with GCE (Advance Level) art and commerce classes.
- Type 2      Schools with classes up to year 11 (GCE O/L)
- Type 3 (i)      Elementary schools with classes up to year 8
- Type 3 (ii)      Primary schools with classes up to year 5

There were 9790 schools around the country in 2003; 1AB -606, 1C -1752, Type 1- 4267, Type 2 - 3165

The education system in the country is a vast structure with a teaching force of around 200,000 in these 9790 schools. The government annually spends 2.8% of GDP for education amounting to rupees 14 billion.

Private Schools

There are three categories of schools in the non-state sector which follows the National Curriculum, they are namely;

1. Private Fee Levying Schools
2. Private Non-Fee Levying Schools

Private Fee Levying Schools

These are schools that have chosen to remain private when the free education scheme was introduced. These schools began their activities during 1951-1960 with the approval of the Department of Education. The Ministry of Education does not provide any financial assistance to these schools so that fees are charged to cover expenses. These schools are nevertheless subject to supervision by the Education authorities. These schools follow the National Curriculum and some schools prepare students for London O/L and A/L examinations too.

Private Non-Fee Levying Schools

These schools chose to remain private in 1960 when schools were being taken over by the government. The state assists to these schools by paying salaries of teachers while facilities fees are charged on the same basis as in government schools. These schools are also subject to supervision by the Education authorities.

Pre-primary Education

Pre Schools / Day Care Centres and Early Childhood Development (ECD)

Only private individuals and institutions, local government authorities and NGOs offer pre-primary education. Pre-primary schools generally cater to children aged 3-5. Although on a non-systematic basis, about 50% of children attend pre-schools.

Well-organized activities for early childhood development are yet evolving in the country. The most well known are the pre-schools which are primarily expected to prepare three to five year old children for schooling. There are day care centres, which look after young children, from infants to toddlers, mainly to help working mothers. All these institutions are run mainly by non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and the private sector. Not all pre-schools are designed or equipped to promote the growth and development of young children. They seek primarily to teach the children to write letters, count and even work out sums. This unfortunately is what the parents and even the primary schools expect as well.

Education of Children with Special Needs

The compulsory education regulations recognizes the right of all children to education, and needless to say this includes children with special needs. The 1997 Education Reforms drew attention to the need to provide such children a education within or outside the classroom. The reforms introduced competency and activity based learning-teaching methodology and extended continuous assessment, creating a learning environment that is more conducive to meeting the needs of such children. A special programme for teachers is being conducted by the National Institute of Education. The Ministry of Social Welfare has also developed a National Policy to the general education system.

Primary Education

Primary Education from grade 1-5 in junior schools lasts five years, after which the students sit a scholarship examination. Those who have passed scholarship examination qualify themselves to be admitted to popular schools and are granted monthly financial support until they pass out from the university. During this five years in the school, child is attracted, settled, disciplined, focused and inducted to systematic learning through a mix of play, activity and desk work. Under the recent reforms, the curriculum is competency based rather than subject based. The basic competencies moulds a child to be competent in communication using words, numbers and pictorial forms and the competencies in the areas of Ethics and Religion, Environment, Leisure and Learning.

Secondary Education

Junior Secondary

Junior Secondary stage is grade 6-9. Grade 6 is the bridging year between the primary and secondary. The common curriculum is comprising nine subjects. Those are; First Language, English, Mathematics, Science and Technology, Social Studies, Life Skills, Religion, Aesthetics, Health and Physical Education. A second language ( Tamil for Sinhala students and Sinhala for Tamil students) is too taught when teachers are available. It is important to notice that the teaching methodology is emphasizing on learning through projects and practicals. Concept of peace education, conflict resolution and human rights and environmental conservation are integrated to the subject content into the Social Studies and other relevant subjects.

Senior Secondary Education

G.C.E. (O/L)

Senior Secondary (O/L) education lasts for two years, grade 10- 11, after which students have to sit for the G.C.E. ordinary level to qualify for Senior Secondary G.C.E. (A/L) education which lasts another two years until students are prepared for the G.C.E. Advanced level examination. There are eight core subjects ( Religion, First Language, English, Mathematics, Science and Technology, Social Science and History, Aesthetic Studies and Technical subjects. With the above subjects, students are permitted to select three optional subjects ( Sinhala / Tamil as a second Language, History, Geography, Health and Physical Education, Literature (Sinhala/Tamil/ English) and Modern or Classical Languages).

G.C.E. (A/L)

Senior Secondary (A/L) education lasts for two years, grade 12-13, after which students have to sit for G. C. E. (A/L) examination. This is mainly a selection exam for University admission. Studies are mainly in Bio Science stream, Physical Science stream, Arts stream and Commerce stream. Many reforms were introduced to this stage as well as to other early stages in order to find career paths to those who fail to gain admission to Universities.

There are four main subject streams available at the A/L examination and they are;

- |                           |                     |
|---------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. Arts                   | 2. Commerce         |
| 3. Biological Science and | 4. Physical Science |

Higher Education

University Grants Commission (UGC)

N0. 20, Ward Place, Colombo 07 Tel : 94 - (011) - 269 5301 Fax : 94 - (011) - 268 8045

The University Grants Commission (UGC) was established under the Universities Act. No. 16 of 1978, and it is the Apex body of the University System in Sri Lanka. The functions of the UGC are to allocate funds to the universities and university institutes, serve as the central admission agency for undergraduate studies in universities, planning and monitoring of academic activities of the university system in order to maintain academic standards and implement national policies in respect of university education in Sri Lanka.

There are 12 National Universities and 2 Institutes under the UGC and 3 Universities under the Ministry of Education and the UGC selects students for admission to undergraduate courses in these 12 universities and 2 institutes.

Admissions Policy for National University

The UGC selects students for admission to undergraduate courses. In addition to admission of students with local qualifications, special provision has been made for admission of a limited number of students with foreign qualifications also to follow undergraduate courses of study leading to bachelor's degrees.

Courses of Study, and the Number of students that can be accommodated in Universities under each course of study, the subject combinations available in each University under different courses of study, and the minimum marks required for admission to various courses in respect of each administrative district could be varied.

'z-score'

The 'z-score' technique is used to rank students in each stream/ discipline. This is a statistical method which brings marks of different subjects to a common and comparable standard. Once the raw marks are converted to Z-score using this technique it is possible to use either the aggregates or the averages to rank the students in each stream irrespective of the nature of subjects/ syllabi/ number of subjects.

The Z-score method is an accepted scheme for subject - wise standardization.

Further details can be obtained from Additional Secretary /Admissions, University Grants Commission, while hands book for students are available at the UGC.

Competition For Admission

In recent years the students numbers ranging from 90,000 - 98,000 have obtained the minimum requirements for admission to universities, but the actual number admitted has been only about 12,000 - 14,000. The number selected as a proportion of the number sat the Advanced Level Examination has been only about 6% and as a proportion of the number satisfying minimum requirements for admission has been around 13% - 15% .

Hence the admission to universities is extremely competitive and the fact is that an applicant who has satisfied the minimum requirements is no guarantee that he/she will be admitted as the selection criteria is such that under many other pre-requisites.

Special Admission

It is a common practice in many countries to reserve a few places for special categories of students such as those who have excelled in sports, arts and culture; blind and disabled; personnel of armed forces; adult candidates and foreign students. Only a very small number is admitted on special grounds specified above. The special categories of candidates who qualify for special admission to universities in Sri Lanka are:

Blind and Disabled Candidates

Applicants under this special provision are required to submit Medical Certificates acceptable to the UGC in proof of their physical disability. For the purpose of this section, physical disability shall mean a permanent physical impairment, which has affected normal life. A limited number of blind students (who sat the G.C.E (A/L) Examination using the Braille system) to courses in Arts and physically disabled students (who are medically certified as disabled) to courses in Arts, Commerce, Biological and Physical Sciences are selected. Candidates who satisfy the minimum requirements for university admission and the appropriate subject pre-requisites for the relevant course of study are considered under this special provision.

Students Who Have Excelled in Fields Other than Studies:

Under this special provision, up to 0.5% of the places in each course of study has been reserved for candidates who have obtained only 1st, 2nd or 3rd places at national level and/or achievements at international levels in such fields as sports, cultural activities such as dancing, painting, music and literature, scouting and cadetting, social work and other extra curricular activities in and after 2001 but have failed to gain admission under the normal intake because of the shortfall of a few marks. Candidates should have satisfied the minimum requirements and subject pre-requisites for admission to a particular course of study specified in the Students' Handbook. Candidates who are eligible under this scheme are required to produce documentary evidence with regard to their achievements at the interview.

Enlisted Personnel of Armed Forces, Police Service & Special Task Force;

Under this special provision, up to 0.5 percent of the total number of places in Medicine, Dental Surgery and Engineering (MPR) is reserved for the personnel enlisted in the Armed Forces, Police Service and the Special Task Force serving in operational areas. Candidates who wish to apply under this provision should have satisfied the minimum requirements for admission and submit their applications to the Secretary of Defence, through the Commander of the Service concerned. UGC will make the selections based on the average Z Score of the candidates. The candidates should not send applications direct to the UGC.

Sri Lankans who have Studied Abroad and Foreign Students:

Under this special provision, up to 0.5 percent of the places available in each course of study have been allocated to Sri Lankan students who have obtained qualifications abroad and foreign students. Accordingly, candidates who have foreign qualifications equivalent to G.C.E (A/L) Examination of Sri Lanka are eligible to apply. They should apply in a special form obtainable from the UGC.

Admission of Teachers

Teachers who have passed the General Arts Qualifying (External) Examination in or after 2000 having offered English as one of the subjects and teachers who have passed the General Science Qualifying (External) Examination in or after 2000 with five years service and not enrolled in any Teacher Training College / College of Education at the time of selection: and in the case of Biological Science or Physical Science, have offered for the G.C.E (A/L) Examination or for the General Science Qualifying (External) Examination such subjects as would enable them to be selected for a course available in a university are eligible to apply for universities.

The Council of Legal Education - Sri Lanka Law College

The Council of Legal Education (CLE) was established in 1873 and the Sri Lanka Law College was established under the CLE in 1874 in order to impart a formal legal education to those who wished to be lawyers.

Admissions

1. Admission consequent to entrance examination
2. Admission of Law graduates of Sri Lankan and foreign Universities
3. Admission of members of the legal profession of commonwealth countries

Private Institutes for Higher Education

Those who are not admitted to the universities, and those who have studied up to the GCE advanced level or GCE ordinary level exam, can either study at the Open University or at private institutes. Those who pass A/L exam with three subjects can also pursue higher education as external students in Public Universities or at the Open University of Sri Lanka. The Open University of Sri Lanka was established in the early 1980's with the idea of conferring degrees and diplomas to the working population who can do part-time studies by paying tuition fees.

There are many other private institutes to provide higher education for those who are not admitted to universities. There are foundation courses for those who are passed O/L to study further up to diploma level or degree level. Degrees are awarded by foreign universities.

Piriven Education.

The Piriven education has been in existence even during the time of Lord Buddha. The 'Gira Sandeshaya' mentions of the piriven education of Dambadeni and Kotte eras. Ven. Thotagamuwe Sri Rahula thero of Vijeyaba Pirivena who knew six languages and Ven. Vidagama Mithreeya Thero were from Vidagama Danananda Pirivena.

The faded piriven education was reformed during the era of Velivita Sri Saranankara Thero at Niyamakanda Vidysthanaya in Kandy. Later this was started in Pelmadulla and in Rattmalana. Ven. Hikkaduwe Sri Sumangala Thero who learnt from Rattmalana started the Vidyodaya Pirivena in Maligakanda in 1873. In 1875 Ven. Sammaloka Thero of Rattmalana started the Halbarawa Vidyalkankara Pirivena. Today there are 640 centres for Piriven education.

Primary / Secondary Education

This education system has been formalized by the piriven act (Piriven Panatha) of 1979 and the list of orders of 1980 (Piriven Niyogamalawa). The Piriven branch of the Ministry of Education has been appointed for its administration.

The pirivens consist of three main categories

Through this institute Clergy and others too can get higher education and need to qualify at least up to year five. Education for postgraduate is also studies available.

Tertiary and Vocational Education

The Ministry of Skills Development, Vocational and Technical Education is entrusted with formulation of policies on TVET and implementation of such policies through its implementation arms TVEC, HRDC, NITESL, DTET, VTA, NAITA, CITA, INGRIN Institute of Printing, NIBM, CGTI, HRDC and CITI.

Those who are not admitted to the Universities, and those who have studied up to the GCE A/L and O/L exam, can either enter vocational technical schools or be employed in private companies or in government departments as apprentices or trainees. They can also pursue higher education as external students of traditional universities or at the Open university of Sri Lanka. The Open University of Sri Lanka was established in the early 1980's with the idea of conferring degrees and diplomas to the working population who can do part-time studies by paying tuition fees.

Tertiary and Vocational Education Commission

Tertiary and Vocational Education Commission (TVEC) is the apex statutory body in vocational education and training in Sri Lanka functioning under the Ministry of Skills Development, Vocational and Technical Education. Its main responsibilities are the planning, co-ordination and development of tertiary and vocational education. Its functions include preparation of policies and plans, maintenance of a national accreditation and certification system, maintenance of Labour Market Information and assistance and guidance to Tertiary and Vocational educational institutes and development of core curricula. TVEC is the regulatory body for all aspects of implementation of Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) in Sri Lanka. TVEC has outlined the key policies and operational features of the National Vocational Qualifications Systems in Sri Lanka (NVQSL).

The NVQSL provides the opportunity for sustainable, strategic solutions for national training needs and it will easily be able to achieve international recognition for qualifications, skills and knowledge of Sri Lankan workers in an increasing competitive global environment. There are seven levels of qualifications from Level 1 to Level 7. National Certificate for Level 1 is recognizing the acquisition of a core of entry level skills. National Certificate for Level 2, 3 and 4 is recognizing the increasing levels of competencies. Level 4 qualification awards for full national craftsmanship. Level 5 and 6 is a National Diploma and it recognizes the increasing levels of competencies ranging from technical level to management level. Level 7 is a Bachelors Degree or equivalent. Certification of these levels are carried out by the institutions accredited by the TVEC and they are nationally recognized.

Private Education System

International Schools

International Schools were established with the approval of the FIAC/BOI beginning from the 1980s. They are officially regarded as business ventures and are registered with the Registrar of Companies under the Companies Act No. 17 of 1982. These schools invariably impart education in the English medium and mainly follow the British curriculum in preparing students for the London O/L and A/L s.

We provide information on International schools as there are such schools in many towns in across the country and becoming popularize. It is also important to note that students learn in the English medium and their career is much faster as they prepare for undergraduate courses through these schools or other institutes in overseas universities. Some students enrol in foreign universities ( Universities in UK, Australia, Malaysia, USA and Singapore are popular among Sri Lankan Students) soon after their results are released. Those who are not admitted to the universities, and those who have passed GCE ordinary level exam too follow courses leading to foreign degrees through these institutions.

British Curriculum

The Primary Years (Y1 – Y6)

There are three 'core' subjects in the National Curriculum – English, Maths and Science. Maths & English are tested at Key Stage 1, Science being added at Key Stage 2 at the end of the Primary cycle. In addition children are taught History, Geography, Technology, Art, Music and Physical Education.

Secondary Education (Y7 – Y13) Years 7 – 9

Children continue to be taught the same subjects as in the Primary years, with the addition of at least one foreign language. In many countries this is normally French, while in international schools the host country language will almost always be taught. Science may be taught as an integrated subject or as three subjects (Chemistry, Physics, Biology) depending upon the school's policy.

Years 10 – 11

This is a two-year cycle in which students prepare for the GCSE examinations. These are important for university entrance as well as for employment. Success in at least 5 subjects is usually required for eventual entrance to a British university and also for universities in other countries, since the British system is recognised in most countries throughout the world. The level of achievement in GCSE is the normal indicator of a student's capacity to study at A Level. Many international schools take IGCSE (International GCSE) rather than the normal British GCSE. This is administered by the Cambridge University board (UCLES) and is fully recognised as equal to the standard GCSE.

At this stage students will normally study up to 9 subjects, although in international schools the number of subjects taken may depend, student's ability. The results of these examinations are graded, from A-G. The 'pass grades', acceptable to universities and employers, are A*, A, B and C.

Years 12-13

Following successful results at the (I)GCSE examinations students wishing to go on to university or other institutions of higher education will take A Levels. Students will normally study 3 subjects for A Level, though they may study for a fourth A Level, or perhaps an additional subsidiary level course (known as AS). The choice of subjects depends upon a student's likely course at university, and likely future career. For example, a student wishing to study Engineering, will have to study Physics and Maths and one other subject; for Medicine, Chemistry is obligatory, normally with two other subjects out of Biology, Maths and Physics. A number of other courses, however, have wide flexibility in subject choices – for example, Law, Economics, Business Studies.

Pass grades at A Level are A, B, C, D and E. Fail grades are N and U. The level of pass grades required will depend upon the demand for places at different faculties and universities. The most difficult universities to enter are normally Oxford and Cambridge, while the most difficult faculties will usually be Medicine, Veterinary Science, Dentistry and Law. Because of the effect of supply and demand, some students may well fail to gain entrance with pass grades in 3 subjects of B, C and C, while others applying for lower demand subjects will easily be accepted with such grades.

International students transferring at a late stage to a British school (for example at the A Level stage, but not having taken the GCSE exams) should not be too concerned. British universities are flexible in their demands, especially with international students, and will offer places on the school's recommendation and likely results in their A Level.

The above description is by no means comprehensive in detail, but is intended to be a basic guide to the British educational system for those not familiar with it. However, parents seeking a place at an International school for their children will understand the essential structure from the description given above. They will always be able to find out more details from the schools which they visit, or which their children are currently attending.

Higher Education

Following successful results at the A/L examinations who wish to study in foreign universities can proceed with the path which schools offer, or they can study at any other higher educational institute locally or abroad. Some institutes facilitate students to study one or two years locally and the following years at their overseas university.

International Schools

Primary and Secondary

International schools operate independently of the government education authorities and the national education curriculum. International schooling is popular with families who want their children to study in the English medium, possibly with a view to follow the British Education Career Path. Several international schools provide extra English language tuition for students whose first language is not English. Most international schools teach according to the British national curriculum culminating in the Ordinary (O) Level and Advanced (A) level examinations administered through the United Kingdom. A small number offer the UK-based GSCE system of assessment for O level students which involves more continuous assessment and practical examinations and only two schools offer the International Baccalaureate system. Some international schools incorporate elements of the Sri Lankan national curriculum and many schools offer Sinhala and Tamil as second languages.

Some schools have the traditional teacher-led approach while others have the student-centred approach philosophy. Some schools have in-house facilities for sports while others require children to travel by school buses to such facilities at various places in town. A small number of international schools are permitted to employ teachers from overseas.

There are over 150 international schools island-wide. In this section, we have listed a small number of international primary schools in Colombo with some details and have listed some schools out of Colombo. Information of these schools has been obtained from school administrators, websites and school prospectus.

Introduction

The Vibhavi Academy of Fine Arts (VAFA) is an alternative school for fine arts learning. A group of contemporary, practicing artists started the school with the aim to pass on their knowledge and practical skills as well as to impart perspectives of cultural politics that highlight the need to reflect on social reality, in relation to fine arts especially visual arts, to interested students. The Academy was founded with a clear and specific vision about the nature and outreach of cultural education. With the strong conviction that education should not be confined to institutions of formal education alone, the Academy aims providing a centre of non-formal cultural education. Target group the adults who have had some degree of formal education as well as those who have not received such education but whose innate talents and desire for creative expression have remained dormant and unfulfilled.

Thus the Academy is an alternative space for art education. The aim of VAFA is not merely to impart visual arts knowledge but actually to produce visual art and artists, and facilitate their growth.

VAFA offers full time and part time courses in Drawing, Painting, Sculpture, Ceramics Printmaking and Photography. Some studios such as Photography and Printmaking offer workshop type courses and other studios offer one year and four-year programmes.

TOEFL

This course teaches the skills and examination techniques required by students preparing to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) and includes material for the Test of Written English. The course contains short practice tests.

The TOEFL test was introduced as a computer-based test in July 1998. It combines many of the same question types as the traditional paper-based test with new question types that can be offered only on the computer. There are several advantages to taking the computer-based TOEFL test.

Almost all international students whose native language is not English need to provide a TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) score as proof of English proficiency for university study.

IELTS

The International English Language Testing System (IELTS) is an internationally owned and globally recognized direct English language assessment of the highest quality and integrity readily available throughout the world.

IELTS is a highly dependable, practical and valid English language assessment primarily used by those seeking international education, professional recognition, bench-marking to international standards and global mobility. IELTS is owned, developed and delivered through the partnership of the British Council, IDP: IELTS Australia and the University of Cambridge ESOL Examinations.

SAT

Everyone who plans on going to college in America needs to take the SAT exam.

The SAT is designed to measure your verbal and math reasoning skills. It is divided into seven sections, which can appear in any order in a test book. This is a timed test; you are given three hours to complete it.

Each test includes three verbal sections. Two of these are 30 minutes long and one is 15 minutes long. There are nineteen analogy questions which measure your understanding of word meanings and relationships between two words. There are also nineteen sentence completion questions which measure your understanding of word meanings and logical sentence construction. There are forty critical reading questions which measure your ability to read a passage or a pair of passage and reason through them.

Courses

BSc (Hons) Business Management

The programme has been designed to cater to both students wishing to specialise as well as those wishing to obtain a general degree. Thus in addition to students being able to choose subjects that are in their area of interest in the 2nd year of their study, in the 3rd year of study students can choose from among 3 pathways available to specialise, namely Finance, Marketing or Human Resource Management or 'pick and mix' modules so as to become a generalist. In the final year students are required to undertake an individual research project and submit a dissertation (20,000 Words). This is a challenge to them to apply the knowledge acquired during the course and to synthesize knowledge and skills from the various disciplines to solve a selected problem. Yet another unique feature of the programme is the real life project. Groups are required to undertake a project (offered by various firms) which involves a real life problem and requires a solution. Their findings have to be presented to management and faculty. This has extremely successful with most students receiving employment offers from sponsoring Companies.

The quality of the BSc is assured by the fact that students can transfer to The University of Wales, Bangor campus at the end of year 1 to the year 2 or at the end of year 2 to year 3.

Master of Business Administration (MBA)

The MBA aims to provide a postgraduate management qualification to managers moving from (or intending to move from) functional levels to the strategic. This qualification is also for those technocrats who wish to transform themselves from managing technology to general management. It thus attempts to respond to a need in the vitally important area of management for men and women aspiring to be top managers in Sri Lanka and abroad by supporting the realisation of their full potential. The subjects offered (core and electives) and the teaching and learning methods facilitate the development of the post graduate students to become effective strategic planners, implementers and in-fact able internal Consultants.

Tertiary and Vocational Education

There is emerging a very positive development in Sri Lanka where the public and private sectors are offering recognised vocational courses on demand basis and better career guidances. Many things have changed within the last decade, as earlier only 4 main careers (engineer, lawyer, accountant and doctor) seemed to be the ones that teachers and parents encouraged kids to do, and everyone was striving to get into a mainstream course in universities. It was portrayed as second best if you did not get into university, and lots of people ended up going to universities to do some course (anything that they were offered). The fact that some one got a university education seemed more important than your degree and what you did afterwards.

Although there are excellent aspects in traditional university education, the fact is that only about 6% of the students will have the opportunity to get in to a university. On the other hand the traditional "prestige" of going to university needs to be balanced with the reality of individual skills and preferences, and students need to be encouraged to follow a career suited to them. A vocational and technical education needs to be recognized as equally important as a traditional university education as in many other developed countries. In fact, the vocational courses probably prepare people better for the real world, and is more useful with time.

Training Institutes

There are number of Training Agencies under the purview of the Ministry of Skills Development, Vocational and Technical Education.
