Local and General.

Weather. We are still having frequent showers. At the month of September, Many fields are still unknown. Either we are to have an unusually heavy rainy season, or the latter rains are to prove more or less of a failure.

The Annual Convocation of the churches of the American mission will be held at Manipay on Friday the 16th instant—two weeks from tomorrow. Rev. J. H. Davies presides and an interesting program is promised.

Missionaries. Rev. E. Weaver is on a mission in the Wesleyan field. Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Eddy are expected Saturday, to work in connection with all three fields. Mr. Eddy expects to bring with him one or two Parades from India. We bespeak the earnest prayers of all Christians that God's blessing may accompany the labors of these devoted workers. Our churches need the quickening influence of the Spirit of God.

St. Louis Exhibition. The Manigar and Preident Tribunals, Delft, is sending a large and varied collection of (palm) products, says root, sea moss, basket work, ropes of different kinds, coral stones &c. to the Government Agent N. P. to be sent to the St. Louis Exhibition.

Vaddukoddai Post Office. Mr. Brohier the chief Inspector of Post Offices in Ceylon, visited this office on 28th Inst. and spent several hours in inspection. He is, we understand, pleased with the business carried on in this office. We congratulate Mr. Backus, the Post Master, on the satisfaction he is giving to the Government and the general public.

A Farewell Entertainment was given in honor of Mr. A. M. Nathanael n.a. at the Chetty street school of the W. M. S. last Friday. Mr. Nathanael has been for over three years assistant master in this school and is leaving to join the staff of Trinity College, Kandy. He has every reason to feel gratified at the cordial appreciation of his services as shown by the large and enthusiastic gathering that filled the school. We congratulate Mr. Nathanael on his successful career in Jaffna and wish him Godspeed in his new sphere.

Snake Bite. On the 17th inst. a woman of Vadukoddai aged 35, was bitten on the leg by a snake, four teeth marks being in evidence. In an hour she was unconscious, her body gradually became cold and breathing short and difficult. In about three hours after Dr. Thamotharampillai of the Government dispensary began giving his special remedy he had a levitated most of the bad symptoms and now after steady improvement she is completely cured. Dr. Thamotharampillai hopes that he has secured a remedy for snake bite when taken in time, and is particularly exacting with it.

The Govt. Agent. Mr. Lewis, Govt. Agent went on circuit to Mannar on the 28th inst.

Home Mission. The annual meeting of the "Home Mission" Society of the Petah Wesleyan church was held yesterday in the Pettah church.

S. H. Hillord. This large steamer arrived at Kankesanturai from England on Friday the 25th inst. with 6000 tons of Railway materials. The discharging and landing of the cargo is managed by Messrs. Mather and Son, on contract. Mr. Mather is holding evangelistic meetings daily with the 500 coolies engaged in unloading the ship—would that we had a hundred consecrated men like Mr. Mather!

Pont Pedro. The new Reading Room building was formally opened by Mr. Pria, Police Magistrate on the 16th inst. at 4:30 P.M. A large gathering of prominent people filled the building. After numerous speeches the meeting adjourned but immediately took the form of another meeting which decided to authorize Mr. Allagakkon, now of Chilaw, to hand over the funds collected at Pt. Pedro for the Governor's permanent memorial fund to the Treasurer of the Jaffna committee subject to the conditions as to the use of the money and the form of the memorial. The meeting then came to a close about 9 P.M.

Kayts. Mr. and Mrs. Wooters have returned to Kayts after visiting their friends and relatives in Colombo and Kandy. Mr. Sivaprasam who has been acting as Magistrate for Mr. Wooters has returned to his practice in Jaffna.

Studies in Ephesians. This is the first of a series that has been prepared by Mr. G. E. Eddy both in Tamil and English for the use of "Mission agents and others who desire to make a thorough study of particular books." The books have been carefully prepared, and are very suggestive. There has long been a demand for just such "Outlines," and we welcome their appearance most heartily. The price of each is one Anna per copy. Not a mission helper ought to be without one either in English or Tamil. "Studies in Galatians" is about ready and "Studies in Colossians" is already in the press.

NOTES.

The oldest newspaper in the Chinese Pek-Tai, which was founded 1000 years ago, up to the year 1301 it appears, and the reading matter related. Since 1830 and up to 1876 it was read three times a day: the morning yellow paper, the afternoon edition on the evening edition on grey paper.

Death from sleeplessness is the punishment for murder in some parts of China. The culprit is kept awake by beating the soles of his feet and this treatment continues until he dies. At the end of nine or ten days the victim breathes his last.

The extent of business relations of America with the Old World may be inferred from the fact that the twelve cables across the Atlantic now carry an average of ten thousand messages a day.

The London Daily News, one of the most influential Liberal journals in England, has taken decisive attitude from a moral standpoint, and has rejected all advertisements of intoxicating liquors and excluded articles on horse races and the fluctuations in betting, which appear in all other daily journals.

The university at Foura Bay, Sierra Leone, is said to be the smallest in the world. A few years ago it had but twelve students and five professors.

A collection of models of the crowns worn by all the Sovereigns of the nineteenth century is to be exhibited at the St. Louis exhibition. The Czar's is the largest, Sweden's the smallest, Napoleon's the most magnificent, and the Pope's displays the best workmanship.

A German inventor, Dr. Arthur Korn, has perfected an apparatus for telegraphing photographs any distance. The process is slow in transmission each photograph taking twenty minutes to send, but it is accurate.

Correspondence.

We hesitate to admit the following communication to our columns, first, because the statement which it concerns, if made as alleged, is so palpably and ridiculous as to argue about it seems foolish and, second, because it is not out policy to enter into argumentative discussion of any sort—argument is of little, if any value in advancing truth and invariably leaves those who engage in it further apart in the end. We admit it solely because it is interesting, well written and informing, though as an argument it is far from putting forward the strongest facts.—Editor.

THE NORTHERN RAILWAY.

THE JAFFNA—KANKEESANTHAI SECTION.

The Northern Railway is perhaps the greatest benefit the Government of Ceylon has conferred on Jaffna. While we are gratified at the blessing bestowed on us, we cannot help regretting that the Jaffna—Kankeesanthai section is not as useful as the public would expect it to be. What are the reasons for this discrepancy? The fact is, that the inherent tendency of the Jaffna man to walk as far as he can rather than travel the distance in a conveyance, if he has to pay for it, there are, we think, other and weightier reasons for the unpopularity of the line. We feel strongly that a great and irreparable mistake has been made with regard to the selection of the route the line has been made to take and of the sites on which the Chunnakam and Jaffna stations are built. It seems as if the line has been purposely made to steer clear of some of the most important parishes of Jaffna, through or near which it could have been made to pass. The station at Chunnakam is not near enough to the market to enable people to use the railway conveniently when going to or returning from it. The station at Jaffna is even more inconveniently situated in an out-of-the-way place, about two-thirds of a mile from the Grand Bazaar and the former distance from the Pettah and the Pettah. It is the general opinion that owing to these mistakes, the Jaffna—Kankeesanthai section will not be a success it ought to be, even after the removal of the quarantine regulations, unless some effort is made by the authorities to encourage the use of the railway.

We think that the prospect of the Jaffna—Kankeesanthai section would have been entirely different, had it been made to pass nearer the "hukkumai" market, if such centers of population as Udumville and Manepey had been made accessible by train if the station at Jaffna had been made to occupy a central position—say somewhere near the clock tower—within easy reach of the Grand Bazaar, the Courts, and the Pettah; it is, above all, near the Pettah, where the line passes and near which the line passes had been granted a few wayside stoppages. We are aware that the mistake in the selection of the route and of the sites of existing stations is a defect that cannot be remedied, and that, crying over that circumstance, will be crying over split milk; it cannot be productive of much good, except as shewing the Govt. the urgent need of making some amends for the drawback of the line in the shape of affording facilities to passengers. We do not think we are looking a gift horse in the mouth when, with due gratitude to the Government, we venture to point out the utter disregard of the authorities for the convenience of the people who wish to avail themselves of the railway between Jaffna and Kankeesanthai. In order to hear our own statement, we have sought to draw attention to the strange fact that though nearly a year and a half has passed since the opening of the railway, and though the traffic of the Jaffna—Kankeesanthai section has been found to be decidedly unsatisfactory, the Government has not yet established wayside stoppages to secure an increase in the traffic. The disregard of the Govt. for the convenience of the people in not allowing wayside stoppages becomes all the more glaring when we consider the fact that the granting of stoppages will cost no extra coal, oil, or wages and that to ensure economy of time and save trouble, the trains may be stopped only when a signal is made by intending passengers at the crossings.

We shall give one instance of the disregard we refer to. The most important stops on the whole of the Jaffna—Kankeesanthai section next to Jaffna, is Telliappallai, about midway between Kankeesanthai and Chunnakam. It is a centre of educational, industrial and commercial activity. Strange to say in the fixing of stations Telliappallai was ignored. On representing to the Government, soon after the opening of the railway, the urgent need for a station at Telliappallai, only a wayside stoppage was allowed; and as if taking by one hand what was given by the other, passengers entraining at Telliappallai were asked to pay the full fare from Kankeesanthai, and that too without the privilege of return tickets! In spite of these discouragements, the Govt. did use the railway, but after only two months' use, the stoppage was discontinued on the pretext that the department was not satisfied with the number of passengers using the railway. We are sure that the results would have been far more encouraging had train fare been charged according to mileage, and the privilege of return tickets been allowed, and instead of a trial, a permanent stoppage been granted irrespective of gain—a concession which would have added to the popularity of the line without costing the authorities anything more than a little trouble and two or three minutes for every stoppage. We would ask in vain for a wayside stoppage at Kocknville which is another important village by the line and a centre of tobacco trade—unless we can get such a concession.

The people of Jaffna, living in a backward state and not used to the facilities of a railway, need to be encouraged to appreciate them; and the duty of a Government intent on "the welfare of its people" does not begin and end merely with the granting of a great benefit, but it requires the finishing touch of every possible effort on its part to make that benefit really useful to the people for whom it is intended. We therefore strongly feel that at a time when the people of Jaffna are just beginning to appreciate the facility for travel afforded by the railway and in consideration of the inconvenient nature of the sites of the Chunnakam and Jaffna stations, it would be proper on the part of the Government to encourage the use of the train by making all possible concessions, even at the cost of a little increased expenditure. In the interests of the railway itself and for the convenience of the people for whose welfare it has been opened, we think it will be but just and politic for the Government to make some suitable arrangements immediately, by which at least wayside stoppages may be granted to Telliappallai and Kocknville without any further loss of time and similar concessions extended to other places along the line where the need may be felt. We are confident that in case our suggestion is carried out, the loss of time and the additional trouble involved will be amply justified by the increased tendency of people to use the railway for purposes of travel and of conveying goods, and the consequent augmentation, slight though it be, in the income of the section.

REPORT OF THE NORTHERN PROVINCE FOR 1902.

There is much of interest in this report, though our review of it must of necessity be brief. The general health of the people, says Mr. Ivers, was good. In January there were 29 cases of cholera at Kayts of which 24 proved fatal, but there was no recurrence of this disease during the year. There were only two cases of small-pox. Fever, which generally prevails at the end of every year, was less virulent than usual.

The work on the railway brought in a good deal of money, and wages remained high. The price of food-stuffs did not vary much. The supply of garden produce was satisfactory. Owing to the large export of fowls and eggs to Colombo the price of these articles has gone up. As for the staple food of the country i.e. rice, it is interesting to know that our province does not raise much over one third of the total amount of grain that is consumed. The figures are as follows:—

Paddy raised 956,993 bushels, varagu and other grains 77,105 bushels. The consumption in the province was, paddy 2,256,821 bushels, and 194,871 bushels of rice, or say about 2,646,563 bushels of paddy as against less than one million bushels raised locally. Other grains consumed amount to 98,553 bushels. The great need of irrigation works is thus seen to be paramount. The Giants' Tank was completed last year, and it will allow of the cultivation of about 20,000 acres of good paddy land. The Karachchi scheme when completed a few years hence should open up another large tract of country for paddy cultivation.

PALMIRAH.

Though we are justly proud of our palmirah peninsula, strange to say the demand for the fruit of this palm is decreasing. This is no doubt largely due to the fact that as the people become better off they care less for this article of food. In some instances the fruits are allowed to remain on the ground to be eaten by the cattle. There has been a great falling off in the quantity of jaggery exported. In 1901 over 3,350 cwt. were exported while in 1902 only 1,193 cwt. The palmirah fibre industry on the other hand, has grown enormously 1,318 cwt. being exported as against only 62 cwt. the previous year. The export of palmirah timber has fallen off, being not much more than two thirds of the amount exported the previous year.

TOBACCO.

We quote from the report, and would add that if we have been correctly informed, the trial made at Pallai for improving the curing has been a failure, so that the fault seems to be not so much in the curing as in the cultivating of this product.

"There has been a fall in the price of the leaves grown locally, and it is a matter of great anxiety with the tobacco growers of the Province that the price is on the decline for some years past. The fall in the price is chiefly owing to the market being glutted, and unless a fresh market is found, for the local product no material improvement can be effected.

A trial was made by Mr. Mac D. Gibson at Pallai in curing the Jaffna tobacco to suit European markets.

I have nothing new to mention as regards this important industry, which will continue to be unsatisfactory to the producer until he begins to realize the necessity for improved methods of curing the product. I can only call attention to my observations in previous Administration Reports."

CRIME.

Turning now to the statistics of crime, Mr. Ivers reports 8 cases of murder and manslaughter of which 3 were convicted, and 80 cases of hurt with knife and 32 convictions. Do these figures prove that crime is on the increase in the Northern Province? We have no statistics given to form a basis of comparison, but the number of assaults where the knife was used seems large. Mr. Ivers does say however, that "a fertile source of crime" are

CASTE AND RELIGIOUS DISPUTES.

"No less than twelve cases were reported of unlawful assembly, with modifications as to rioting and grievous hurt, homicide, &c. As I have stated, they are due to Vellalas resenting the adoption of customs hitherto peculiar to them only, as of wearing jewellery, riding in carriages, using tom-toms at social functions, &c. by the low caste Nalawas and others, who have become rich and decline to follow the old customs." The most flagrant of these outrages was committed at Neervalli on the King's Coronation day. The bitterness with which these cases have been handled, and punishments inflicted, have had a salutary effect, and this year we have had less trouble of this kind.

The troubles in Delft are referred to by the Govt. Agent and his action defended. A village Tribunal has now been established in this Island, the Maniagar being President on a salary of Rs. 880 per annum for the combined post.

ARCHAEOLOGY.

Some interesting discoveries were made of Buddhist remains. At Chunnamgam and Tunnalai two large images of Buddha were found which have been restored and set up in the Park at the Kachcheri. In the Mannar district portions of three statues of Buddha were dug up, and both in Jaffna and Mannar interesting remains of the Dutch and Portuguese periods have been brought to light.

Doctrine which Dr. Cuthbert Hall delivered some months ago in all the leading cities of India, maintained that the learned Doctor had deliberately "read the teachings of Hinduism into Christianity." Before entering into an enquiry as to the reasonableness or otherwise of the above statement as of the Hindu Editor, it is well, I think, to call his attention to a fact which he has, apparently, either forgotten or ignored; namely, that the term "Hinduism" as it is, at present understood, conveys no definite meaning, being, in reality, a convenient name for all the different kinds of religious belief, from the most abstruse philosophical systems to the most gross forms of idol worship which prevail in India to-day. As "Hinduism" is such a vague term applied to so many contradictory systems of religious thought, it must be no easy matter, indeed, to ascertain to what particular branch of philosophy the Editor of the "Organ" referred when he said that Dr. Cuthbert Hall had "read Hinduism into Christianity."

There are other facts, however, which the Editor of the "Organ" is most probably, not aware of, and which, had he known, he would not have, as he has done, jumped to conclusions, at once ill-supported and unjustifiable. It is a well-known fact of history that the introduction of Christianity into South India dates from the time of the very Apostles of Christ. According to tradition, the Apostle St. Thomas is credited with having made converts to the Gospel among the Tamils of the Districts around Madras, in the first century. A.D. that is, when Rajah Chola, king of Tondamandalam, The same tradition further states that St. Thomas suffered martyrdom at Little Mount, near Madras owing to a temple raised by the Hindus of the place and was buried there by the small band of followers whom he had gained during his short ministry. That St. Thomas visited South India is proved by the following unimpeachable evidence, namely,

1. It is supported by the "Acta Thomas," quoted by Epiphanius, bishop of Salamis in 388 A.D.

2. The visit of Thomas to the Tamils is referred to in the "Teaching of the Apostles" which existed previous to the Council of Nicaea held in the year 325 A.D.

3. It is supported by the intimate relations which are known to have existed between the early Christians of Malabar and the church of Edessa in Persia, of which, St. Thomas was the founder and overseer.

4. Alfred the Great of England sent Ambassadors with presents to the shrine of St. Thomas in the ninth century A.D.

5. Eusebius and Jerome refer to one Pantaeus who visited Malabar in the 2nd century A.D. and found there a Christian community which possessed a Gospel of St. Matthew in the Hebrew language.

6. Cosmas Indicopleustes informs us that there was a Christian bishop in the 6th century at Kalyana, near Madras.

7. The constant intercourse which prevailed between the Church in Persia and those of Malyapore, to the north of Madras, the birth place of Tirumalai, and at Uangamur, is borne witness to by numerous Pali and inscriptions found in these places, and attributed to dates not later than the 7th and the 8th centuries.

The most significant fact in relation to the evolution and development of the Hindu philosophy of South India, however, is the connection between the Christian settlements of South India and the starting places of the leading philosophical systems of South Indian Hinduism. It is an undoubted fact of history that Sankaracharya, the founder of the Pantheistic school of Vedanism, was a native of Cranganur. Madavacharya, who was born near Udupi, which became his chief seat, while Ramanacharya was a native of Sri Pernatur, near Madras. The striking resemblances between the doctrines of Christianity and those of Saiva-Siddhanta have long ago been recognized by the Oriental scholars of Europe; and the marked affinities between the tenets of Christianity and the Hebrew philosophy of the 2nd century B.C. formed the subject of an elaborate leading article of the Madras Mail in June last. It is true that Christianity is a system of religion which rests mainly on a number of facts which do not appeal primarily to the philosophical instinct of man; but it undoubtedly presents to the fact, subjects and problems which those who can find will, satisfactorily.

The great theologians of the primitive church and as such, could not but venture to explain, in terms of nation, the Godhead, the origin of sin, and other mysteries which have, no doubt, found their way into the libraries of the Christian bishops of South India. It seems, therefore, a conclusion at once unwarrented by facts of history to say that the Christianity of the first century is indebted to the Hindu "ism" of the eighth, twelfth, and fourteenth centuries. "What is not true, is not of his hearers and contemporaries only, but also for the Editor of the Hindu Organ," said the late Sir Madra Rao, not for the Editor of the Hindu Organ, is, undoubtedly, out.

It is clear that Dr. Hall's views are such as have never been held by any Christian theologian, the "Organ" in the extreme. For, to be able to pronounce this the controversial and theological literature of the Christian church from its very commencement. This, the Editor of the "Hindu Organ" does not claim to have done.

Yours truly,
Theophilus.
