STATISTICAL VIEW

OF

THE PROGRESS OF CEYLON,

1823–1909.

NOTES.

The figures under the heads Population (exclusive of those for 1871, 1881, 1891, and 1901, when a Census was taken), Births, Marriages, Deaths, Schools, and Cultivation, are only approximative. The registration of Deaths and Births is compulsory. The figures under the head Schools and Scholars for 1882 do not include Private Schools unaided by Government.

The great difference in value of Exports for 1873, as compared with 1871 and 1872, arises from the average value of Coffee during 1873 in the local market previous to shipment being taken at £4 10*s.* per cwt. for plantation and £4 per cwt. for native instead of £2 14*s.* and £2 as previously.

The money figures from 1874 to 1885 have been converted from rupees to pounds sterling at 1*s.* 10½*d.* to the rupee; for 1886 and 1887 at 1*s.* 7*d.* to the rupee; for 1888 at 1*s.* 4½*d.* to the rupee; prior to 1874 at 2*s.* to the rupee. From 1889 it is shown in rupees.

[1] The duties of the Judges are to administer justice according to the Penal, Criminal, and Procedure Codes, and the Laws of the Island; in discharge of the Criminal and Appellate jurisdiction vested in the Supreme Court, which extends over the whole Island; and the duties of the Private Secretaries are to act as Clerks to the Judges, to carry on their official correspondence, and to arrange their notes and judgments.

[2] The Registrar has the management of all the business of the Court, Criminal and Appellate, and of his Office.

[3] The Deputy Registrars keep the Criminal and Appellate Minutes, and assist the Registrar in the management of the business of the Court and of the Office.

[4] The duties of the Attorney-General are not clearly defined, but are in many respects analogous to those of the Attorney-General in England, though in some respects they resemble those of the Lord Advocate in Scotland. He acts as Legal Adviser to the Executive and every Department of Government. All Contracts and Deeds affecting the Government are prepared or settled by him; and he prepares all the Legislative Enactments of Government. He acts as Public Prosecutor, and instructs Magistrates in criminal proceedings. All information in the Supreme or District Courts run in his name, and he, or some one deputed by him, appears for the Crown in most civil cases.

METEOROLOGY, &c.

METEOROLOGY.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Climate of Ceylon.—The climate varies considerably in different parts of the Island, both as regards temperature and rainfall. In the low lands the climate is tropical, but in the mountains in the interior the climate is found equal to many parts of Europe.

The mean temperature for the year 1909 was highest at Mannar and Trincomalee, 82°·4, and lowest at Nuwara Eliya, 59°·1.

At Colombo and Kandy the mean temperature was 79°·4 and 75°·6 respectively.

The mean daily range of temperature, i.e., the mean of the daily differences between the maximum and minimum temperatures, was highest at Badulla, having been 19°·2, and lowest at Galle, 8°·3.

The differences recorded at Colombo and Kandy were 11°·8 and 14°·0 respectively.

The absolute range or differences between the highest and lowest temperatures of the air recorded during the year was greatest at Nuwara Eliya and lowest at Galle, having been 42°·5 and 20°·4 respectively.

The absolute range at Kandy was 29°·7 and at Colombo 24°·8.

The hottest stations, taking the mean temperature of night and day all the year round into account, were Mannar and Trincomalee 82°·4. The coolest Nuwara Eliya 59°·1. Colombo and Kandy were 79°·4 and 75°·6 respectively.

Meteorological Observatories.—The sixteen meteorological observatories are distinguished in Table I., which also shows the latitude, longitude, and elevation of the different barometer cisterns above sea-level.

All stations are supplied with the following instruments :—Maximum air thermometer, minimum air thermometer, maximum wet-bulb thermometer, minimum wet-bulb thermometer, solar radiation thermometer in vacuo, terrestrial radiation thermometer, and rain-gauge.

Puttalam, Mannar, Jaffna, Trincomalee, Batticaloa, and Hambantota possess in addition a standard barometer, anemometer, and wind vane ; Diyatalawa anemometer and wind vane.

Colombo is equipped, in addition to the usual instruments, with a Beckley anemograph, Richard barographs and thermographs (wet- and dry-bulb), and a Richard pluviograph.

Besides the above-mentioned stations there are 185 rain-gauge stations reporting their observations monthly to this office. Including the sixteen principal stations there are 201 rain-gauge stations ; of these, 101 are in the wet and 100 in the dry zone.*

The maps (diagrams 3 and 4) show the distribution of these observatories and rain-gauge stations, and by varying depths of colour the rainfall for 1909 and the mean annual over different parts of the Island.

SOLAR RADIATION.

The instrument employed at the observatories for determining the equilibrium temperature of solar radiation consists of a sensitive mercurial maximum thermometer, having the bulb and part of the stem covered with dull lamp-black. It is enclosed in a larger glass jacket, from which the greater part of the air has been exhausted. These instruments, which were previously placed on stands about one foot above ground, were in 1885 mounted on stands four feet from the ground, the height now generally employed in meteorological observatories. The effect of this change is that the difference between the solar radiation readings and the maximum in shade has been below the average obtained in previous years at almost all the stations. This is due to the fact that the radiation from the ground and surrounding objects has been diminished by the increased height of the instrument. At the same time the readings are probably much nearer their true values.

The relative amount of solar radiation, or intensity of the sun's rays, is indicated by the difference between the temperature registered by this instrument and that registered by the maximum air thermometer in the shade. For various reasons, however, the temperature indicated by this instrument affords only an approximate measure of the amount of solar radiation that penetrates the atmosphere.

Table II. (in appendix) shows the equilibrium temperatures of solar radiation for each month of the year 1909 for all stations, giving the monthly mean of the daily readings, the highest and lowest reading for the month, with the dates on which they occurred.

NOCTURNAL RADIATION.

The thermometer employed for registering the cooling of the stratum of air in contact with the earth, as the result of radiation towards the sky at night, is a sensitive spirit minimum thermometer. It is placed on a pad of non-conducting material (blanket) resting on the ground.

The relative amount of radiation from the earth is indicated by the difference between the temperature registered by this thermometer and that registered by the minimum air thermometer.

Table III. (in appendix) gives the monthly means of the nightly readings, the maximum and minimum readings with the dates on which they occurred.

* The "wet zone" is where the rainfall is over 75 in. in the year ; the "dry zone" where the rainfall is less than 75 in.

AIR TEMPERATURE.

Table IV., below, gives the average monthly mean temperatures of stations in Ceylon. The data for the deduction of the mean temperature are obtained since January 3, 1907, from the means of the maximum and minimum thermometer readings during the twenty-four hours.

Table VIII. (in appendix) gives the sea-level equivalents of the mean monthly temperatures in Table V. omitting hill stations. The reduction to sea-level temperature has been made by adding one degree of temperature for every 450 ft. of elevation.

ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE.

The barometer used at the Colombo Observatory is a standard, by Negretti and Zambra, which has been compared with the Kew standard. All the barometers at outstations are on Fortin's principle (constructed some by Casella, others by Negretti and Zambra), and have been compared with the Colombo instrument. At all the stations the instruments are placed in buildings and are preserved, as far as possible, from extremes of temperature.

Table IX., below, gives the monthly mean barometric readings deduced from observations in Ceylon extending over a series of years.

WIND.

The instrument employed at the Colombo Observatory is a self-registering Beckley anemograph. It records the direction and velocity of the wind, continuously, on a revolving drum driven by clockwork. At outstations the instruments employed consist of the ordinary wind-vane for direction, and a Robinson anemometer for registering on a dial the distance travelled by the wind.

Table XII. (in appendix) gives the number of times that each of eight wind-directions and calms were observed at 9*h.* 30*m.* and 15*h.* 30*m.* by the ordinary wind-vane at outstations; the trigonometrical resultant of these observations, computed by Lambert's formula; and the mean diurnal movement of the air; also the average monthly values of the last two data, computed from as many years as have furnished anemometric registers.

The Colombo anemograph records the number of miles travelled in each of sixteen directions.

HYGROMETRY.

The humidity of the air, the elastic force of aqueous vapour, and the temperature of the dew point are inferred from the relative temperatures of identical dry- and wet-bulb thermometers when exposed to the same conditions. In order that the evaporation of the water from the wet-bulb may take place freely, the instruments are kept in outside sheds: if kept in rooms, the reading of the wet-bulb will not give a true indication, owing to restrained evaporation.

Table XIII. (in appendix) gives the monthly and yearly means of the daily readings (the mean of the maximum and minimum), monthly and yearly means of the readings of the maximum wet-bulb and minimum wet-bulb, the mean range, also the difference of these several values and the corresponding air temperature.

Table XIV. (in appendix) gives the mean vapour tensions of the several months of 1909, and those deduced from the reading of the maximum and minimum dry- and wet-bulb thermometers.

Table XV., below, shows the average monthly and yearly mean vapour tension for different stations, deduced from observations extending over a number of years in Ceylon.

CLOUD PROPORTION.

The relative proportion of cloud is determined in the usual manner by estimating the average amount of sky covered, 10 denoting a sky entirely and continuously overcast, and zero a cloudless sky.

Table XX., below, shows the average proportion of clouded sky in each month, deduced from the registers of past years.

RETURN OF MANUFACTURES, MINES, AND FISHERIES.

N.B.—There are few regular manufactories, mills, &c., in Ceylon, those entered in this return being, with the exception of the steam engines, sugar mills, and a few of the oil mills, of a very simple kind.

There is also no regular yard for shipbuilding in the Island ; small sloops and schooners are, however, frequently built and launched locally.

They are marched from their cells to the stalls in single file three paces apart and are not allowed to speak or communicate with each other at all. Prisoners not in penal stage are not worked on the separate system.

QUESTION II.

If not on the separate system, what provision is there for the supervision of the prisoners while in association ?

The males are supervised by male officers of various grades, and the females by matrons, in all jails.

QUESTIONS III. AND IV.

How many cells are there ; and how many associated wards ? Taking the average number of prisoners in jail, how many cubic feet of space are there for each prisoner during the hours of sleep ?
