Democracy is not Majority Rule

IV. Actions of Communal Majority Contrary To Western Practice

BY A STUDENT OF POLITICS

No one can say that society is in any way less diversified in Ceylon than it is in South Africa or the United Kingdom. In fact it is far more diversified. Like the English and the French in Canada the Sinhalese and the Tamils differ from each other in language, religion and race. But "the differences between the Sinhalese and the Tamils are far greater than the differences between the English and the French, or even than between the English and the modern Greeks" (Ivor Jennings). Federalism in law or in practice is the appropriate governmental pattern for a federal society like Ceylon. If one compares the political status and language and other rights of the French in Canada, the Northern Irish and the Scots in the United Kingdom, the English in South Africa with the Straits to which the Tamil speaking people have been reduced in Ceylon then one can realize the gulf that exists between the anti-majoritarian democracy prevailing in federal societies all over the Western world and the Ceylon brand of democracy with a permanent communal majority enthroned in power.

Even if the Ceylon Parliament has the same powers as the Parliament of the United Kingdom, the concept of constitutionalism requires that it should conduct itself with self restraint and refrain from acts which are manifestly unjust and unfair to the minority communities.

But the Ceylon Parliament is not sovereign. There is a clear injunction in the constitution not to discriminate as between communities and religions. Yet the Sinhalese have signalized their advent to power by a series of discriminatory acts. The constitutionality of these acts in the narrow sense of the term, except in the case of the Citizenship and Franchise laws has not yet been tested. That will depend on the interpretation of the letter of the law in the wording of which the communities adversely affected have had no hand whatsoever. We must not forget St. Paul's famous dictum "The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life". Therefore the more relevant consideration for us is whether the alleged acts are constitutional in the wider sense of the term, the sense in which the constitutionality of an act is judged by reference to certain accepted principles in democratic countries. When we thus move on to this wider horizon the conventions of the British Constitution those of the Commonwealth countries and even the provisions of the American Constitution become applicable to Ceylon. We must remember that prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of religion, race or language is not peculiar to any particular country. Such prohibitions are the commonplace of all civilized countries. Once this is realized there will be no difficulty in assessing the true character of some of the actions of the Government of Ceylon.

We have already referred in an earlier article to the advisory opinion expressed by the Permanent Court of International Justice on the abolition of minority schools in Albania. The Court held that an Albanian law abolishing private schools in that country was not justified by the fact that it constituted a general measure applicable to the majority as well to the minority. The above advisory opinion of the Permanent Court entitles us to draw the conclusion that the recent schools take-over Acts in Ceylon are discriminatory against the non-Buddhist and non-Sinhalese communities of this country.

The above case arose out of a complaint of infraction of the International Treaties guaranteeing the protection of minorities entered into by a number of Central European states after World War No. I. The writer on this subject in the Encyclopaedia Britannica referring to complaints made to the League of Nations has stated, "Some of the economic complaints had their origin in economic and social measures which in spite of legal equality worked to the factual disadvantage of the minorities as in the case of agrarian reforms when estates owned by minorities were divided up among peasant members of the majority or when new middle classes were helped into existence at the expense of the minorities. This is exactly the complaint which the Tamil speaking people are making in regard to State-sponsored colonization of Tamil areas by the Sinhalese.

Writing on the Citizenship and Franchise Acts the late Dr. I. D. S. Weerawardena, Reader in Political Science at the University of Ceylon observed, "It is not necessary to canvass the constitutionality or otherwise of these Acts. It is possible to find very cogent reasons to urge that the Acts are unconstitutional as Mr. N. Sivagnanasundaram D.J. did. It may be that some would be with the Supreme Court in its decision of 28-9-51 that it is otherwise. Even if they were constitutional, on which honest men can disagree, the basic ques-

HAVE FAITH & PRACTISE

(By SWAMI SIVANANDA)

Spiritual progress depends on faith—faith in God, faith in the Scriptures, faith in the Guru. Faith is the basis of all progress. Even material progress, inventions and discoveries, depend upon faith—faith in oneself.

Men have travelled in space. If the scientists who had been responsible for putting astronauts into space had kept on wondering if it would be ever possible to do so, had kept on doubting their own ability to do so, space travel would have continued to remain a dream.

Have faith in yourself. Have faith in God. Have faith in the Guru. It may be easy to place faith in mathematics, in astrophysics, in known scientific laws, and work towards the achievement of your object. In the spiritual realm, with its unseen laws and unseen effects, it is more difficult to place faith. But, initial faith is necessary. Even if you do sincere Sadhana for one full year, you will get some little experience, some concrete evidence to convince you of the existence of an Unseen Power, of the existence of laws which science cannot explain, which reason is powerless to analyse. The more the Sadhana, the greater, and the deeper, the experience. With every fresh experience, your faith in Guru, in God, in Scriptures, in spiritual laws, grows. And with every increase of faith, you do more Sadhana. The chain goes on, and provided you are vigilant and do not fall a prey to temptations which Satan places before all aspirants, one day you will certainly attain that final experience, that direct experience, the Pratyaksha Pramana, the proof positive, the Aparakshanabhati.

Sadhaks often come to me and complain of lack of faith. I tell them: "Do not worry. Do Sadhana. It is precisely to induce

There is no place in spirituality for doubters. Doubters cannot progress. To them, death is the only certainty, nought else.

No doubt, faith is difficult. See Thomas. He doubted Jesus. Even after the Great Master had shown miracles to induce faith in the disciple, the disciple did not believe. He wanted the Master to show more miracles. That is the doubting nature. That is the trick of the mind. Kill this doubting nature if you want to progress.

It is easy to sing, "I am neither mind nor body, Immortal Self I am"; but, if you are asked to give up even one meal on Ekadasi night, you will not. And still you complain that you have not progressed spiritually!

It has become a fashion nowadays to blame the Guru for lack of progress in one's own Sadhana. You can only take the horse to the water's edge, but you cannot make it drink. The Guru can only teach. It is for the disciple to do Sadhana. The Guru cannot do the disciple's Sadhana. The Guru can only ask the disciple to place initial faith in him and do Sadhana, but beyond that, he can do nothing.

Leave alone the question of a personal Guru. The world has been blessed with a line of God-men who have trodden this fair earth with their divine footsteps. We all know their teachings. The schoolboy knows that he should not steal, that he should speak truth. The lawyer knows that he should not coach up false witnesses. The doctor knows that he should not fleece the poor by giving injections with coloured tincture. The husband knows that he should be

BUDGETARY

BITTERNESS

The Minister of Finance could no longer resist the temptation to lay his taxing hands on the staple food of the country. By an indirect process the availability of rice has been interfered with and the citizen has been compelled to be entitled to less quantity of that article which he needs most and that necessarily. Here is an indication of the financial position and the embarrassment in which the people and the Government find themselves. The tall talk of the ruling party during the General Elections of 1960 and the Bye-elections of 1962 has been belied. It is plainly clear that the S. L. F. P. is unequal to the requirements of the present day. The insufficiency of the party in power has been exposed beyond any doubt. Suffice it to say that the Srimavo Bandaranaike leadership has not solved the problem of the people.

What is more interesting is that the S. L. F. P. notwithstanding the glaring menace of liquor that is threatening to destroy society has felt the need to encourage vicious and evil habits such as drinking and smoking.

The limit of bearing the burden of taxes and duties on the necessities

Letters to the Editor.

FIRM FAITH IN GOD TO MEET FRUSTRATION

Sir,—A very distinguished visitor Ceylon has the privilege of welcoming is the Most Hon. Brother Nicet Joseph, Superior-General of the Brothers thers of the Christian Schools. It is reported that this eminent personality has made the following pronouncement in the course of his utterances to the people of this country:—

"This phase of distress in which you find yourselves may soon blow over. Just as gold is purified by fire, so are our convictions put to the test by the present trend of affairs. What we need now and always are a firm faith in God, an abiding charity and the faithful fulfilment of our religious and civic duties." The people of Ceylon specially the Tamils could find no better advice at this critical juncture than those contained in the above utterances.

This sage advice founded on religion is also consonant with practical politics and democratic principles and procedure. By following the advice of the Superior-General and by continuing our efforts in the fulfilment of our religious and civic duties, there could be no doubt that the people collectively and individually would be doing their best for the country, and to the community and religion to which they belong. Let us all endeavour to treat our present difficulties as a temporary phase and put forward our best endeavours to discharge our duties in all spheres of activity, without ill-will towards others, particularly those who may not agree with us on vital matters, and without succumbing to our present difficulties and at the same time without losing ourselves in frustration, defeatism, or anger.

Yours etc.

of life has been reached. The common man has been pushed further and further down the valley of exhaustion. However the glib talk about socialism, democracy and all other theories of Government are being expounded and explained to the electors by the legislators without for a split second becoming conscious of the predicament in which the country has been placed economically and politically. That is the present situation.

HAVE FAITH AND PRACTISE

true to his wife. Yet, how many of you practise what you already know? How many of you practise all the good things that you already know to be good, and desist from indulging in all those things that you already know to be bad? Very few. If only a man would begin to practise all that he knows to be good, and give up all that he knows to be evil, even as he practises the virtues and gives up the vices, God will send him further guidance; and if a Guru in physical form is necessary, God will send him that Guru also.

Shed hypocrisy. Have sincerity. If you want to turn a new leaf in life and make progress in spiritual life, none can stop you, not all the world put together. But, if you are not sincere, if you are just curious, if you do not mean what you say, and do not practise what you profess, then God Himself cannot help you. The solution rests fundamentally with yourself.

The Guru is like a torch only. He shows light on your path, but you yourself have to walk in the path. The Guru cannot place the footsteps for you. I am reiterating this point, so that it may enter deep into your heart. Curiosity-mongers often come to me seeking private inter-views. And I tell them all: "Have Antar-view". Have Antar-view. Look within. Look within yourself. Sit alone and introspect. Find out your faults and remove them. Seek new avenues for the practice of virtues, and practise.

Theory is of no use, unless it is put to practice. Do not blame the theory without putting it to test. "Serve, Love, Give, Purify, Meditate, Re-lise" That is the spiritual formula. Do you serve the sick, the suffering, and the illiterate? Do you love your neighbor's child as your own? Do you give one-tenth of your income in charity, whatever that income may be? Have you tried to remove lust, anger, greed, attachment, pride and jealousy from your heart through Japa, through Kirtan, through Swadhyaya, through Ekadasi Vrata? If you are not practising these, you cannot have even a minute of meditation. And without meditation, you cannot have tion has not been answered. Is it right that a moral undertaking given to the minority communities be broken soon after constitutional power to break it has been obtained? The Soulbury Constitution received minority support (without which it could not have been implemented) because it arranged to enable the minorities to win a certain number of seats. The Ceylon Indians were among these minorities. To deny them the vote is to deny them the seats. One moral undertaking has been done away with. To deny the vote to the Ceylon Indians is also to reduce the total number of seats available to all the minorities. That is a broken pledge to all the minorities. The moral basis of the Soulbury Constitution has been wiped away. To attempt to prove the constitutionality of the position is not to attempt to prove its justice."

Dr. Weerawardene has used strong language. But very much stronger language can be used in regard to the language issue. No doubt the Government's action in disfranchising the Indian Tamils was a gross betrayal of the Tamil speaking people. But it was always expected that the Indian issue would be reopened after independence. Because it was an unsettled issue, the Soulbury Commission had to devote two chapters to it in its Report and to recommend safeguards to prevent discrimination against Indians in the grant of franchise. But the language issue, on the other hand was taken for settled. There was not a word about it in the Soulbury Report. After more than ten years the Sinhalese leaders deliberately reopened it and whipped up public feeling. One group of leaders did it in order to capture political power. Another group did it in order to retain power in their hands. The reversal of the language decision was an act of betrayal which has no parallel in the long and chequered history of this Island. It was another act of injustice against the Tamil people.

Rice On Coupon Reduced In Measure

The new proposals of the Finance Minister have created quite a misgiving in the minds of the people. The usual two measures of rice on coupons have been cut down by half a measure. Sales Tax has been made operative from August 1, 1962. Among the articles that have escaped notice of the Finance Minister are arrack and beedies. Surcharge on Income Tax has been increased from 15 to 20%.
