On Teachers & A Sense Of Responsibility

In the East the 'Guru' is a very respected person. Nevertheless, in Ceylon of late many disparaging remarks have been made about teachers.

It has been revealed that one of the serious problems confronting school absenteeism of teachers. It is estimated that absenteeism is now nearly 85 per cent, daily in government and vest schools.

This is a problem which has arisen only in the last decade. What are the causes of such high absenteeism among teachers, who enjoy three vacations a year and in addition are entitled to casual leave, sick leave and in the case of women maternity leave.

The excessive leave taken by teachers has prompted the question whether physically unfit persons are being recruited to the teaching profession. But, as teachers before appointment have to obtain medical certificates testifying their fitness, ill-health has to be ruled out.

Great Teachers

At the beginning of this century when our schools (reputed to be among the best in the East) had outstanding men and women as heads, there was no such problem. It was very rarely that a teacher did not turn up for duty.

Great headmasters and respected teachers who were born leaders had created such an impression among assistant teachers that no one would dare absent himself from duty for frivolous reasons. Teachers playing the truant were unheard of half a century ago. How did these heads of schools wield this authority over young teachers?

The secret of success was the personality of these heads of schools which led both teacher and student to discipline themselves. The very presence of these headmasters was sufficient to make young assistant teachers act with a sense of dedication and responsibility. The vivid impressions left in the minds of not only teachers but also students, who were in these schools can be seen even today.

At that time those students, now men holding responsible positions, were instilled with patterns of behaviour, that it was put down as the characteristic behaviour of the pupils of a particular school.

Due to their personality such great educationists made children tolerant, peace loving, respectful of accepted customs and manners and submissive to authority. With their passing away our standards of discipline deteriorated.

One reason for the deteriorating standards of teachers is that in our schools there is a dearth of school heads who could be considered as models of such patterns of behaviour and conduct.

The first essential for a teacher is of course, a good knowledge of the subject he teaches in addition to this he should possess the ability to teach. He should know to impart his knowledge to the pupils. For this he has to adopt interesting and varied teaching devices.

The personality of a teacher goes a long way to stimulate and encourage his pupils. For this the teacher should possess a good educational background. The teacher has to keep pace with the advances made in teaching methods by keeping in touch with the latest researches made in the field of education.

Even the most qualified teacher has to go prepared with the lesson he proposes to teach in class. He should find the most interesting methods of presenting the subject so

Memorandum on Education by Minister

The Cabinet considered the memorandum submitted by the Minister of Education Mr. I. M. R. A. Irriyagolle on the changes necessary in the present educational set-up. Mr. J. R. Jayawardena, Acting P. M., presided in the absence of Mr. Dudley Senanayake who is away in U. S.

that to young children it may not be dull and boring. But, how many of our teachers go to a class with the lesson prepared.

It has been said that teachers work only five hours a day. But the ideal teacher devotes about thrice the number of hours for his teaching. What does he do in the remaining ten hours.

The correction of exercises takes a good deal of time. An ideal teacher underlines the mistakes in an exercise. He makes notes of the common mistakes made by the children. In his class lesson he points out the errors and leaves the students to correct their own errors.

Practically all teachers in a school have to help the children in their extra-mural activities. This is a very exacting work. It may be in sports activities or on the stage that teachers' help is needed. It has been noted that in schools where the teachers co-operate there is a full education imparted to children.

It is to such schools that there is a great rush for admission at the beginning of a year. Nevertheless, it has been found that in many instances where teachers get the best out of the children under their care, no recognition is given. Due to this, teachers are apt to be idle and in such cases the maximum leave is obtained.

In modern education, emphasis is not so much

BHUTA - ATMA

Vinasa utpatti eva asya tat oha sharamayam viduh |
Karmanah api atimisrena yat sariram iha atmanah ||

The atman has acquired this body by its past acts (papa and punya). This body which is sharamayam or annamayam is subject to birth and death,

Notes & Comments

Atimisrena Karmanah :

By misra Karma, the human body is obtained. Misra means a mixture of good and evil acts or punya and papa acts. Punya acts alone lead to heavenly bliss whereas papa acts alone direct the souls to the lower orders of life.

The second half of the verse points to the law of Karma. All of us are Karmavadins. We believe in the law of Karma. We also believe that this law operates only when we are in bondage. Till our spirits are awakened, and till we become earnest seekers after God we are bound down to the sphere of time and space. We delight in changing our names and forms; we delight in changing from one state of being into another. In this conditioned, undelivered state of bondage we are subject to the unrelenting and merciless law of birth and death and we work out our destiny confining ourselves to the Karmic territory. As children of Karma, the birth we get depends on the nature of the works done by us before. It will be a heavenly life for us if our works are noble, high purposive or inspired. It will be a mere servitude of Samsara if our works are selfish and of a very low order pertaining only to a life of the senses. Chandogya Upanishad in Chapter (5 - 10 - 7) says "Those whose conduct has been good will quietly attain some good birth—the birth of a Brahmin, a Kshatriya or Vaisya. But those whose conduct is evil will quickly attain an evil birth—the birth of a hog or dog or a chandala".

Karma operated and guided by God.

When in bondage all our actions are motivated by our petty desires. The effect of an act is two-fold. Firstly the very act—motivated by desire—brings a mutation in the personality of the doer. Secondly the act generates a force which travels in the required directions, finally to come back to the doer bearing the correct type of fruits which he may like or may not like. The fruits of the act also bring a second mutation in the personality of the doer. Thus, an unending process of conditioning goes on in the case of the individual atman when his works are motivated by the ordinary passions and impulses of life. This law of Karma is operated and guided by தீராதானசத்தி which is the fierce aspect of God. Our saints beg of God to punish them for the misdeeds of their lives if there be any.

COMMITTEE TO DRAFT NEW CONSTITUTION

The Government motion on the subject of a New Constitution for this country is simple and sincere in this that the Select Committee of the House of Representatives and the Senate will be free to submit a draft constitution without being limited in its deliberations to specific terms of reference. That the House of Representatives appoint a Select Committee to join with a Select Committee of the Senate to submit a new draft Constitution for Ceylon was the motion that was unanimously approved by the Group. The Opposition motion however seeks to create confusion by proposing specific terms that cannot be acceptable to the majority of either the House of Representatives or the Senate. The purpose of the Opposition is to feed fat on the recent grudge it has against the Tamil speaking people by making unnecessary and adverse emphasis on the effect of Section 29 of the present Constitution and moving for a Constitution to be drafted on their terms which exclude the incorporation of the safeguards for minorities as preserved in section 29.

The Constitution can be amended or a new Constitution may be approved but only in accordance with accepted Parliamentary procedure. The agitation for the revision of the present Constitution has not been confined to any single political party. However the main consideration in this matter has been the desire to bring about changes that would satisfy all parties in the largest common measure. It is very deplorable that the attitude of the Coalitionists has suffered a serious setback which is calculated to create more misgivings in the mind of the common man. The only relieving factor is the awareness and vigilance of the common man and his careful study of the activities of political parties. The voter now knows the guiles of those who seek his vote but every time under a different political banner. In this context it is a hopeful indication that the Acting Premier Mr J R Jayawardene, has stated that public opinion will be called for by the Select Committee.

It will be relevant here to invite the attention of all political parties to the agitation of the minorities for constitutional safeguards and the provision that was made by the Soulbury Commission in the form of Section 29 of the present Constitution. This section must be read and re-read and explained to the people by the leaders. How far it has served as a bulwark against the totalitarian and communal tendencies of the Governments after 1956 can be easily seen. We are confident that the House of Representatives and the Senate will take the utmost care in this matter of appointing a Select Committee by providing for a procedure that will ensure the exercise by the people of their freedom to express their views on this matter of paramount importance. Such a step will help the Representatives of the people take the correct step in framing a new Constitution that will answer the needs of the nation.

LET US HAVE THE LONDON EXAMINATIONS

The examinations of the London University for external students had been of a very helpful nature in the matter of the educational progress of this country. This is the view that is being freely expressed today by every educationist when the resumption of those examinations is being advocated. It will be futile to examine the attitude of the Authorities to these examinations when they were arbitrarily stopped in 1962. Several external students were left in the lurch by the sudden stoppage of the holding in Lanka of the London Examinations and in some instances the educational activities of this unfortunate group almost reached the indecisive end.

It is heartening to note that there is a great support from all quarters for the resumption in Lanka of the London Examinations. The recent happenings in the educational sphere of this country and the undeniable fact that our University cannot cope with the speedily increasing demand for educational facilities must weigh well on the side of the agitation for demanding the holding of London Examinations in this country.

Message of Hinduism to the Modern World

(By Sri Swami
Pranavananda, Saraswati)

It is essential for us to define what we mean by the term "the modern world". The twentieth century is a period which has taken us to a new era in human progress—that of the Space Age. The attempts to conquer space and to reach the Moon are but an indication of the scientific progress achieved by the mind of man. Science has secured for itself a dominant place in the life and in the mind of man. Science which is itself a product of the human mind, by its achievement and powers appears to have supplanted religion in the life of modern mankind. Science as an instrument of human progress and upliftment has brought about greater material and physical comfort. But this very achievement of his appears to have been backed by a disbelief and faithlessness in God and in himself. Man has begun to deny all that comes under spirituality. He has separated the intellect from the heart, the thoughts from passion and practical life from the ideal.

Has religion a place in modern life? Has it a practical purpose and a meaning in the world of to-day? Can religion be divorced from the life of the individual? These are questions that have to be asked and answered. Modern man asks these questions. Why should science and religion be at loggerheads if both are products of the human mind? Why should he man reason undermine faith in God and in himself?

Aharamayam

The first part of this verse says that the body is அகரமயம். The Atman who mistakes the body for his own self is called Bhuta atman. Wrongly identifying himself with the body, he imbibes all the gunas of அன்மை or food and becomes very blind to his own essential nature, அன்மை is divided into 3 classes, Sattvika, Rajaseka, and Tamasika. Sattvika food has the power of bringing about peace and harmony. Rajasika excites our passions and Tamasika food makes us lazy and inactive. Hence the 2nd and 3rd types are unsuitable for those who desire to lead a religious life. They are not suitable for those who seek peace and happiness of mind. Brihad-ranyaka Upanishad (8-1-4) advises the religious aspirant thus "no impure food is to be taken. No impure thing be accepted".

It should be known that these bodies of beings were lying dormant in their respective seeds in their unmanifested state. The seeds of trees and plants are called 'உத்திசம்'.

Notes & Comments

The Shaiva Siddhanta accepts the Sankya theory of Satkaryavada which states that the effect always exists in the material cause முத்தி காரணம், even before it is produced.

The effect is manifested from the cause by certain favourable conditions which are called efficient causes (வித்தி காரணம் and துணைக் காரணம்). The potter and the tools are the efficient causes necessary to manifest the effect pot which exists in the material cause clay.

On Teachers &...

on the mere imparting of knowledge, but on the development of children on proper lines. What can teachers, who do not themselves know the subjects they teach and at the same time play truant do to raise the standards of discipline in schools?

By their exemplary behaviour, devotion to duty and interest in education teachers secure the fullest development of children. For this outside influences like the family and environment should be in harmony. It is the duty of every schoolteacher to educate the children under their care to be responsible citizens.

By their behaviour they should teach children to serve one another in some way. Not only should they live happily, but they should also be useful members of the group, the school, the neighbourhood and the country.

Their Duty

While it is the duty of the State to raise the standards of the teaching profession, it is the duty of teachers to work ceaselessly with a sense of dedication for the welfare of the children placed under their care. Truant teachers have no place in the teaching profession.

It is by devotion to duty that it will be possible for teachers to produce educated people in the way Professor Bagley the American educationist desires. According to him the child characteristics of an educated person are:

(1) To be able to pull his own desires, when their gratification in economic life

(2) Willingness to sacrifice his own desires would interfere with the economic efficiency of others.

(3) Willingness to sacrifice his own desires when their gratification would not contribute directly or indirectly to social progress
