Family is Where Life Begins And Love Never Ends

Nowadays, we have time to feel sorry for the death of an American dog but do not have time to ask our parents whether they had their meals or not. Technology has brought distant people closer and nearby people apart. Everyone is talking about the social issues here and there. But no one is trying to find out the root cause for all these things. This generation has become insensitive to moral values and codes of discipline. So, now the question is why? Why do all these things happen?

To my knowledge, I find the answer as weakened family bonds. Family is where we all belong to and from where our identity comes. A person's values, are based on his/her family and upbringing.

Now, what is a family? By just saying that you with your family does not hold any values for being a part of the family. Four or five persons living under one roof do not become a family

Family is a bond, a long lasting relationship that holds a bond with each other. There are many values that one has to learn to get the family bonding in the right manner. Bonding does not happen overnight.

It forms every second, every minute that you spend with your loved ones. The understanding, the acceptance, the belongingness and the security all enclosed together is how a family bond is formed.

Being part of a blessed family is one among the greatest gifts we get in life. In fact, the ones who support us, teach us values of life and give us a strong foundation in character, teach us the importance of love and being loved, Trust has to be there to one another and many other morals that could be obtained only from a family. A gift is not only with loveable parents, but siblings who care and love us. We cannot buy or demand all these things in life, as we are being to understand their importance.

To be a part of a happy family, one should always thank God for the blessing that any person could get in life. When we see broken families for reasons of their own, we should always remind ourselves, how lucky we are to be a part of a family, that has been, and will be with us all through our lives.

- ◀ 'Better late than never' It's best to do something on time. But if you can't do it on time, do it late.
- ◀ 'There's no place like home' Your own home is the most comfortable place to be.

My Favourite Person

My favorite person is Steve jobs. He was born in Sanfrascisco on February 24 1955. Every one in the world knows the trademark 'Apple' But he is the man behind that name. Steve jobs and his friend Wozniak founded Apple in 1977 in his parents' garage but Apple had grown from two of them in a garage in to a 2 billion dollar in four years. He was not only a business man but also a good father. He was the man who put a basement for Apple to become a giant in mobile industry. He is a role model for us and so many people in the work. He died on October 5, 2011 due to a pancreatic cancer. whether he is dead or not, he will always live in the hearts of people.

Life

When we were born in to this gloomy old world
We didn't realize what we could expect
Life is an unknown treat
As we were children we played
And snuggled in our mother's arms
As we grew older we became aware
That we are a part of this competing world

As we continued in the steps of life
The truth of victory and loss enriched us
How many trials we faced
But the stronger we came out victorious

We must learn to enjoy life
But never misuse it
We must learn to live an honest life
And never be fraudulent

We must learn to live a helpful life
But never allow to be down trodden
We must always remember that
Time lost can never be regained.

Diamante Poems

A diamante poem is a poem that makes the shape of a diamond. The poem can be used in two ways, either comparing and contrasting two different subjects, or naming synonyms at the beginning of the poem and then antonyms for the second half for a subject.

In the poems, the subject is named in one word in the first line. The second line consists of two adjectives describing the subject, and the third line contains three verbs ending in the suffix 'ing' which are related to the subject. A fourth line then has four nouns, again related to the subject, but only the first two words are related to the first subject. The other two words describe the opposite subject. The lines then are put in reverse, leading to and relating to either a second subject or a synonym for the first. Here is the order

Other forms or structure may also tend to have the middle line provide a phrase or description to the first line and seventh line:

Line 1: Beginning subject

Line 2: Two describing words about line 1

Line 3: Three doing words about line 1 ending with ing

Line 4: A short phrase about line 1, A short phrase about line 7

Line 5: Three doing words about line 7

Line 6: Two describing words about line 7

Line 7: End subject

Rose
Beautiful, Colourful
Growing, Blooming, Withering
Flower of love, Environment Cleaner
Looking, Flying, Cleaning
Black, Ugly,
Crow.

Let Us Help The Needy

Yes, this is a golden policy each and everyone should follow and put into practice. Because we'll get boundless happiness by this deed. Even the religions we worship preach the same. There is hardly any religion that is contrary to this statement. We can quote some examples from the religious books to prove this statement.

Jesus Christ, the lord of Christians preaches that "He that shows mercy upon the poor, giveth debt to the lord and I will repay it to him." Again Buddha, the lord of Buddhists says, "You will be rewarded for your offerings to helpless."

There are many countries affected by famine. There are a lot of poor people fighting for their lives stretching their arms for alms. Some are begging in the temples, bus stations, markets, theatres etc. Some are differently abled and helpless. They die because of poverty. But the wealthy don't care for these poor and they try to increase their wealth more and more. When we go to a temple, we should offer at least a ten rupee coin to a poor. That is the real joy and happiness in our lives.

We can help the poor students in our class by giving a part of our interval meal to them. Your offering won't go in vain and will reward you at the appropriate time. If we look into the lives of some historians we can find this statement perfectly true.

If we take the case of Mahatma Ghandi, he fought for the rights of poor and the slavery under the British rule. He sacrificed himself for this heavy task and thereby he became popular. Not only the poor but also the whole India praised him.

Again if we take the case of Mother Teresa, She was one who translated charity into actions. She helped the poorest of the poor. She spent nearly half-a-century serving the poor in different parts of the world and mainly in India. She did her untiring service in a multi faith nation. She respected all the religions. All the leaders of the nations liked, loved and respected her because of her dedicated service. Once, she won the Nobel Prize for her tremendous service to the poor.

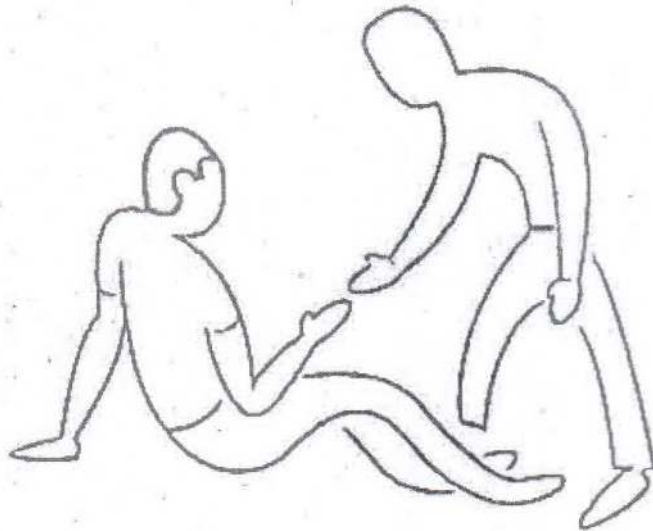

Again if we look into the history of Princess Diana, though she was in a royal family earlier, she sacrificed it and did help the people affected by Aids. She was very happy and glad in helping the suffering masses.

Nowadays, not only men and women but also children go begging. Poverty due to unemployment, death or illness of parents, separation of parents, drug addiction of parents and the forcing of parents have compelled the innocent children to leave their homes in search of labour works. Even in Colombo 3,000 street children were identified by child Protection Authority. The reasons why employers choose children for work is because they can be paid much less than adults and they would do what they are told. Instead, all street children should be admitted to schools.

If the poor people are helped, these illegal activities wouldn't happen. We should give them a fishing net instead of a fish. Likewise, the state, non-governmental organizations which are helping the poor and well-to-do people should help the poor by making them to do some work to earn their living.

“We Pass through this way
Only once and
If there is any good that we can do.
Let us do it now,
For we will not pass this way again.”

Computer

Computers are a useful thing now a days. We can see computers at school, hospitals, officers, homes, airports and railway stations. Computers are used in different ways. For example, in schools it helps children to study. In hospitals it helps doctors to take x-ray for patients. Computer is a man-made thing. Computer has good use in education for all. Charles Babbage is known as thefather of the computers. Many years ago, computers were big like a big television. Then scientist made medium computers.

Now scientists have invented lap top which we can carry easily any where ever we go because computer can` t be carried everywhere. Laptops have the benefits of being just small to use and carry. Computers and laptops are useful to all the people.

Good Manners

Good manners make a man a useful member of the society. They are more important than the laws of the state. One can easily imagine how essential good manners are. They make a man a complete human being. A person who has been brought up in a good environment will have good manners. Good manners are the ornaments of a gentleman, and a real gentleman never hurts the feelings of others. He cares for the convenience, comfort and happiness of others more than of his own.

Courtesy is the foundation stone and the essence of good manners. Hence, we should be courteous and polite to others. We should be kind and soft in tone while talking to others. We should be polite even while refusing the unfair requests of others. Talk less and listen more is always praise worthy as it saves us from many problems. This quality adds extra to the life.

Good manners cost nothing in terms of money but win everybody by leaving everlasting impact on him or her. They are related to the high moral values of life. We can learn good manners by studying the lives of great men and can mould our character. Good manners are extremely important in the present context, because people especially our younger generations have started losing them. They do what they wish regardless of the sentiments of their well wishers. The frequent outbursts of defiance against the parental authority clearly shows that good manners have been disappearing very fast. Perhaps this is the reason why corruption, crime, bribery, kidnapping etc. have found their root in the society.

God has on us a bestowed life with great potentialities within it. Let's be men of good manners to achieve the very essence of humanity.

My New Bicycle

I have a new bicycle. It was presented to me at a ceremony held in the DS office, Nedunkerni to honour the students who got more than 165 marks in the grade five scholarship examination last year. I was very happy to get the bicycle.

It is very beautiful and bright. As it was new, my father took it to a mechanic shop for a service. Then he gave it to me saying to practice. My mother instructed me how to ride the bicycle.

After continuous practice, I started riding it. Now I visit my friends and relatives on my bicycle. I like my bicycle very much.

MY SON

My son;

There are people,
Catching one and two rupees
Thrown by rich men,
Also people eating the remainders,
We leave in our plates.

Beyond you and me,

The world is different.
Many imperceptible events happened,
And still happening.
I know, the God would give them,
Deserving judgment at his court.
Soon, the sceptic minds would realize.

I taught you to be,

Truthful amidst the false hood.
You can't find any insanity,
Like believing one fully,
And not believing others.
Find the true peers first
And be true to them.

My son;

In your life,
There would be ups and downs.
Find them and level them.
Always be a torch, but
Never be a candle to give light

By burning and melting yourself;
Sacrificing for others' selfishness.

If you are defeated,
Do not weep for it.
Make it a success another time.
And keep the lessons
The defeats taught you.
Because, only experiences
Can lead you to success.

My son;

Do you know,
A single word from an elder
Is more valuable than
That of in scripture books.
You will understand it later,
When you experience them
In old ages as like me, now.
Never let others to intrude
In your life and over rule you.
All the materialistic wishes are unstable
Before true things.
Try to be transparent and frank.
Always do what is right to you
And never listen to others' comments.

I've heard of people,
Chasing after money and wealth
And seen people destroying themselves
For the sake of those things, but,
My son; earning the respect for one
Is thousand times hard and precious
Than being a millionaire.
Never give lame excuses like,

Fates can be changed.

If you’ve made a mistake, accept it,

Never be ashamed, because,

No one is perfect to mock at you.

Take effort as much as you can,

Try again, and again to achieve your dream.

My son;

I know,

These advices are not needed to you,

As you know the world.

But, I must give you such advice.

For you are not like others,

You are unique;

You are the most valuable and priceless;

Because, you are “MY SON!”

The Place I Like to Visit Most

Earth is the only planet with life. on the earth we can find so many relief features such as mountain, valley, waterfall; river etc. by these features god beautified the world for us. Different places in the world become famous by their special relief nature and landscape The place I like to visit most is Sinharajah forest It is situated in Ratnapura highlands up to eight hundred meters As It is a tropical forest, it receive high rain fall and the temperature is also high. Therefore vegetation grows highly and densely and greenly Sinharajah forest is motherland for many animals, birds and for many endemic species.

Flying squirrel, jungle fowl, are some of the endemic species in this forest. Many streams start their springs from the hills in the forest. A falls known as Dust Shower is famous in the forest because the water falls on a rock and like a spray water is sprayed. It looks so beautiful and adds more beauty for the forest.

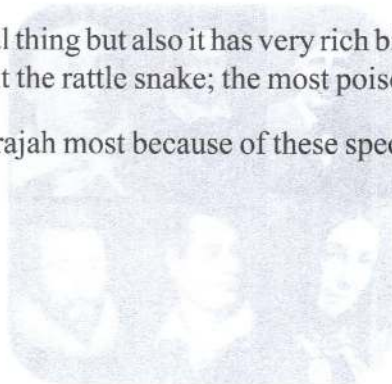

I like to visit Sinharajah because of these special features. In the outer area around the forest a zone known as “buffer zone” is created by the government to protect the forest from the people who live in the boundary villages. It is created with an objective of usage for villagers. Within the forest there are some buildings of forest department for the use of tourist as well as visitors. Here they can stay for night or for a short while

If we go to Sinharajah we can feel loss of stress and we can feel happy and amusement. It was declared as national heritage by UNESCO in 1948 then in it was declared as world heritage in 1972.

Not only this special thing but also it has very rich bio diversity. There we can find the poisonous serpent the rattle snake; the most poisonous serpent in Srilanka

I like to visit Sinharajah most because of these special features.

Teachers are one of the greatest assets to the society they belong to and they can make a great contributions to the society. They have to update themselves with the recent finding and developments in the field of education. The teacher should posses an pure or spoless moral character for the students to follow the same path. In addition they have to be honest, sincere and trustworthy not only in school but also outside the school.

A child passes through the hands of many teachers in his\her life. Each are is unique and precious in their own way. Teachers have the important responsibility of shaping the lives of young and innocent children who put into the care of their hands. We own a great deal to our teachers. We wouldn` t have reached the position we are in now without the contribution of a teacher. We are necessary to buildup confidence and respect for the teachers. The teacher is always held in high esteem in the society. The society looks up to them for guidance and assistance. They have to take leading roles in social welfareprogrammes. An good teacher becomes the role model of all children. All of us are in debted or obliged to our teachers. So the Alexander the great say that "I am in debted to my father, but to my teacher for living well."

A Page Out of Face Book

When the morning breaks, dews fall
And people are sound asleep
What do we hear? the soothing calls
Of the little, "twitter" beep
Fake IDs, calamities and criticizing strikes
But who does care,
As long as we share
And get the highest likes
"omg"s and "lol"s
And "c u at the mall"s
What happened to grammar,
vocabulary and the rest of it all?
Getting friend requests and charming texts
From someone for mere glee
Then only question left to ask,
Is, "Truly, who is he?"
From morn to dawn we sit
Upon a chair and wait to see
What photo clips and commenting tips
A stranger left for me
Face book, Twitter, what's up
And even hangouts too
At the end of the day you'll realize
They aren't really made for you
When Face book is done
I've had my fun, and it's
Time to let it go
I've got 10,000 more
To start from tomorrow.

Antarctica The Coldest , Highest , Driest, Weirdest Place On Earth

Antarctica is the fifth largest of the earth's seven continents. During the winter it doubles in size because of the largest amount of sea ice that forms at its edges.

The names Arctic and Antarctica come from arktos - Greek for "bear". This refers to the constellation 'the Great Bear', which can always be seen in the north.

Antarctica is more than 95% covered in ice, and it contains about 90% of the world's fresh water. Because of its thick ice cover, it is the highest of all continents. The snow and ice of Antarctica are the purest in the world. The general isolation from the remainder of the industrial pollution that is common to the other continents.

Antarctica is the coldest continent. The lowest temperature ever recorded anywhere on earth, -88.30C, was in 1960 at the soviet union's vostok station.

Antarctica can be classified as a true desert as the equivalent of just 7cm of water fall annually. It hasn't rained at the south pole since the end of the pleistocene, 1,000,000 years ago. The interior has almost continuous daylight during the winter.

It has only two species of flowering plants and virtually no flying insects. The surrounding ocean, however, abounds in living creatures. Large number of whales feed on the rich marine life. Seals and birds live and breed, but the most prominent inhabitant of the Antarctic is the penguin of which there are over twelve million.

Today, around a thousand people call Antarctica home for several years at a time. Braving that freeze the flesh the constant threat of snow blindness and the intense, unremitting cold, they are there for the extraordinary scientific treasures that await discovery. The ice retains ancient atmospheric samples and meteorites; the skies offer a direct line space. This is the one place still untouched by man that is a barometer for the potentially ruinous impact our species is having on the planet.

Communication

Long long ago people sent messages with the help of pigeons or with the help of smoke signals. Beating drums was another way. Early time horses also carried messages. But today we have many ways of sending messages to people living far away. Today sending messages is faster and easier. We can telephone a person living far away or send a fax message or an E-mail. Today we can send receive messages to help of communication satellites. Technology has advanced in such a manner. New inventions are being made almost every day. As such, communication is very easy nowadays.

Deforestation

Day by day if you take the whole world, millions of trees are being cut down. Every second we live, somewhere in this world a tree is cut down. They say according to myths and legends trees have feelings. They always make a “swooshing” noise when people pass by. They also say that trees discuss among themselves before even letting their leaves fall down. They also drop their leaves before they are cut because of these actions people do believe that trees have feelings just like us humans.

But even though people believe this, they cut them down. Because of this animals lose their habitats. We get less oxygen. Fruits and vegetables decrease. Let's save trees for our own future.

Mercury

Mercury is the smallest planet. It is the closest planet to the sun. It is named for the Roman god Mercury, the fastest of all the gods. It flies round the sun fast. It travels at a speed of about 31 miles per second. Therefore it is not pulled towards the sun's gravity. If you weigh 60 pounds on earth, you would weigh only 15 pounds on Mercury.

Mercury is the closest planet next to Earth. It has a solid core and crust. Its core is made of metal - mostly iron. Its crust is made of rock. Mercury doesn't have an atmosphere or a blanket of gases to protect it. So it gets very hot and cold.

Mercury can be seen from Earth in the evenings, when the sun is setting. It looks like a bright star that sits close to the sun.
