CHALLENGE TO PUBLIC OPINION

THE statement that the Five M. E. P. City Fathers would control the affairs of the City of Colombo, over riding the decisions of twenty six others was attributed to the Premier as having been made by him in the course of his speech at Borella. This was last week. Now Mr. S. W. R. D Bandaranaike denies the truth and correctness of the report and regrets that his speech was not faithfully and fully reported. Fur-ther the Premier bas has directed his wrath against Mr. J. R, Jayawardene. We are at a loss to understand how the M. E P. minority's at-tempt at (in the Colombo Municipal Council) asserting itself in the teeth of a mighty opposition can be a matter purely bet-ween the M. E. P. and the U. N. P. We are compelled to comment upthat 'Borella speech' making all allowances for exaggerations, fabrications omissions. Bandaranaike cannot deny the inference that any ordinary man can reasonably draw from both the earlier reports and the subsequent explanation that the U. N. P. majority group of eighteen would not be allowed to have its own way. The Premier will do well to remember that when the Tamil speaking minority group in-Parliament state that they will oppose, the un-wants the public to do as far as his Borella warnings are concerned.

However, we are unable to withold our opinion on the general effect of the Premier's outburst at Borella. Notwithstanding the laboured explanation of the Premier, it cannot be devied that there had been an ominous indica-tion in that Borella tion in challenge that theM E.P. stood committed to the policy of absolute rule or, in other words, the utter suppression of public opinion. And this disregard for democratic rule was openly expressed by Mr Bandaranaike even before he had recovered from the exhaustion of a long trip to the United Na tions Assembly where the World Organisation was promised his competent contribution fowards the vigorous defence of the principles of democracy and the suppression of totalitarian despotism.

It may be that Premier

Bandaranaike is unwittingly assuming a totalitarian outlook merely to take the U N. P. bull by the horns. But in this fight for prestige of party politics, the M. E P. politics, the Leader makes the mistake of grouping his party with the 'progressives', for it is well known that the two parties that have moved away from the 'Frogressives' to the opposite direction are the U. N. P and the M. E. P. It is idle for Premier Baudaranaike to find satisfaction. paigning against both the M. E. P and the U. N. P. However, whether in the disgrace of defeat or in the vanity of victory, public opinion requires to be respected. The decisive defeat of the M.E P at the Local Government Elections clearly indicates bow public opinion is shaping at present. It cannot be easily challenged.

The young should be brought up to detest vulgarity and improper conduct, to abhor base thoughts and move away from them automatically, as we move away from unclean food. 6

> "All our national plans depend for true and efficient fulfilment character, a sense of true values, a firm adherence to the obligations of duty and a horror of dishonesty and meanness The loans we take from foreign Governments carry simple interest but the deterioration of character goes on with compound interest. The essential foundation of all the structures we design is being undermined at an accelerating pace as we feed the hunger for material goods without supplying the correctives of spirit.

"We seek to make schooling universal. Alongside of it we should make religious up-bringing universal. This cannot be done in these days unless we introduce religious instruction in every variety to suit the composition of the pupils in each school. Attempts are made to apologise for religious practices by oonverting all tradition and all religion into fable and figure of speech. Allegory is not faith, in fact it is the contrary of it. This compromise or adjustment of religion to the materiplist view of life is, in my view, fatal though alluring. Would there be any Obristianity left if Jesus and his life and death become a mere fascinating allegory? Would any inspiration be left in Buddhism if Buddha is not conceived as a divine person? Could any power for good be left in Islam if the Pro-phet is not conceived as inspired by God? Moral teachings have no vital force unless the teaching is associated with a divinely inspired personality. Morality can run for some time on a previously acquired momentum. When the momentum. tum is spent it will cease to move and only the selfish urges will remain. Religious upbringing in the tender and impressionable period of life is, in my opinion, essential for national progress and prosperity. Without it, we shall be the mere des-cendants of Darwinian origin, not ascending to the state of man,

Greater Emphasis On Religion

DECEME

Speaking from the chair at the Parents' Day Cele-brations of the Nallur at the Parents Laborations of the Nallur Vidyasalai, Mr. S. U. Somase-garam. Education Officer, Northern Division, stated that the Education Department was laying greater emphasis on reli-gion as it was felt that education based on religion and culture was essential for the progress of the people.

Continuing Mr. Somasegaram said that the Department had in contemplation a change in the e lucational system, particular attention being paid to religion and culture.

conclusion that Somasegaram said the Hindus should remember that materialistic bias should not be allowed to hinder their progress as such an outlook was entirely foreign to Hindu culture.

descending to the inevitable struggle of jungle.

"Next to religion and epic tradition, good literature depicting heroism. chivalry and martyrdom are of first rate importance in the development of character. The replace-ment of the fine old books of Sir-Walter Scott Robert Louis Stevenson, Ridar Haggard and other noble literature of that type by present day fiction which, I may say, is specially written for the sophisticated, is not a thing over which we can be happy Realistic fiction has its value, but for the purpose of the education of emo-tions, realism is of no use. The young should be nourished on narratives of chivalry and heroism which do not often discover themselves in daily the wrong sort of litera-life. There is time enough ture'. to read and digest interesting and instructive pictures of unfortunate reality—life as it is That has its own uses, but it does not make character or develop the emotions of boys and girls in the desired direction. We must give to the young the best romantic literature we can find, wherein is depicted the glory of facing danger, of championship of the weak, of peace".

Srimat Swami Avinasanandaji Passes Away

It is with a deep sense of sorrow that we announce the sudden passing away of Srimat Swami Avinasanandaji Maharaj of the Ramakrishna Mission on Sunday, the 16th December, 1956, after a brief period of illness at the Visakhapatnam Hospital.

Swami Avinasanandaji 1. Kumarasamy Ponnambalam had been connected with the activities of the Ceylon Branch of the Ramakrishna Mission ever since 1926, and it was he who was mainly responsible for the providing of a constitution for the Ceylon Branch and giving it a legal status, It was mainly due to his untiring efforts that the Ordinance incorporating the Rama-krishna Mission Ceylon Branch) was passed by the Legislative Council and come into operation on July 17, 1929. The Swami was also closely connected with the startiug of the Colombo Branch of the Mission. He was the first Vice-Pre sident of the Ceylon

The Swami joined the Ramakrishna Mission in 1924 and into the Holy Order of Sannyas Shivanandaji Swami Maharaj in 1926. After serving in various centres of the Mission in different places, he took up the charge of the publication of the Cultural Heritage of India in 1936 After completion of the work in 1937, at the earnest request of a few devotees he visited the Fiji Islands and was mainly instrumental in starting the educational and other cultural activity.

ACHARYA VINOBA ON 'RAMAYANA'

The Ramayena creates an idyallic world round the devotee. Our country has been enslaved many time in her long history. But she has regained again and again. Her history is still being written. But if India had lost the Ramayana it would have long ago perished. The Ramayana has helped us to survive. The Western theory iuterpretation of Ramayana is absolutely untenable and untrue

Then it is said that the life of Sri Rama, the hero of this great epic, is not withot some blemish. He is not the ideal man. He has not been able to maintain the ideal conduct all through the story. He is guilty of some serious lapses. To this I would say that it is possible to re-write the Ramayana and depict the hero as a per-fect man. After all, it is not a book of history. So any one can have the free-

I have mentioned Tulsi Ramayana above. In U, P. and Bihar it is read in every house. But house. every nal which is supposed to yana nowhere mentions that Rama discarded Sita because there was some whispering criticism against bar The hero of Tulsi Ramayana could never do such a thing. For Tulsi-das, Sita and Rama are inseparable. Like Shankar and Parvati, Rama and Sita are like the two parts of the same body. There is also no mention of Rama attaining heaven in Tulsidas wants to create a feeling of the ever-present Rama in the heart of the listener. He is ever incarnating in our heart is the incarnation of Rama. And where

Tulsi Ramayana is a poem
The Hindu religion is of devotion. Every goes to the heart. So Ramayana is a subject in which creative genius has unlimited scope It is not a book of history.

The heroes of Ramayana and the Bhagavata are the personification of the divine being. Valmiki has tried to depict Rama as a human being. Everyone therefore has the right to criticise Valmiki's hero.

Was he just and faar to Vali? Was it right to discard one's wife? We raised these questious even when were little boys. I think they are legitimate questions. No one can claim perfection for Rama when the poet wanted to despict him as a human incarnation. How could he make Rama perfect? Rama's imperfection is his glory. And then; Rava-na has obtained a boon that no god would defeat him. If Rama was perfect dom to use his imagination he could not kill Ravana. and despict the hero wholly because, then he would after his own heart. Genius have been a god. That can have full scope here. is why he had to incarnate as an ordinary human being. It was inevitable that he should have some failings as a human being. Every man has some failit is not repetition ings. Gandhiji admitted or translation of the origithat he somtimes commited'Himalayan'blunders. have been written by the great Valmiki. There are many differences in the version of the two boods. For instance, Tulsi Rama-We have to overlook the shortcomings and emulate the good points of great men. Sri Rama, in the eyes of an average Hindu is a mythological figure of divine incarnation. So his shortcomings are generally overlooked. They are not to be imitated by ordinary human beings.

The Bhagavata is also read in every home. There are stories of Sri Krishna's a child. But does mean that was that stealing of butter when he not mothers would allow hearts. eclectic. It has, no parti-cular book. It gives you complete freedom to discard the Ramayana if you dislike it. You are welcome to read another book which you may like it. This is the characteristic of Hinduism breadth of outlook in any other religion. No Christian will ever tell you to leave ther bible and choose another book. You are not a christian if you do not accept the Bible. The same is true of Islam.

But Hinduism

District Judge (0. 304 21 & 28)

Order Misi But Hinduism gives you complete freedom. When our religion gives us such complete freedom for petty rivalry and quarsels. All that is necessary is that man should earnestly strive and realise himself fully. What book he reads, and what symbols he accepts is immaterial. Purification of the heart and mind is the essence of religion. We read the Ramayana because it helps us to purify our hearts. It is only a means. If any other book helps us to purify ourselves we should certainly read it. There is absolutely no reason for us to fight over it. If we use it as a means of spreading hatred we shall weaken our country.
